

accurately as possible.” The Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB has emphasized that these techniques may include “identifying changing future compliance costs that might result from technological innovation or anticipated behavioral changes.”

We are issuing this final priority only on a reasoned determination that its benefits justify its costs. In choosing among alternative regulatory approaches, we selected those approaches that maximize net benefits. Based on the analysis that follows, the Department believes that this regulatory action is consistent with the principles in Executive Order 13563.

We also have determined that this regulatory action does not unduly interfere with State, local, and tribal governments in the exercise of their governmental functions.

In accordance with both Executive orders, the Department has assessed the potential costs and benefits, both quantitative and qualitative, of this regulatory action. The potential costs are those resulting from statutory requirements and those we have determined as necessary for administering the Department’s programs and activities.

The benefits of the Disability and Rehabilitation Research Projects and Centers Program have been well established over the years. Projects similar to the one envisioned by the final priority have been completed successfully, and the proposed priority would generate new knowledge through research. The new RRTC would generate, disseminate, and promote the use of new information that would improve outcomes for individuals with disabilities in the areas of community living and participation, employment, and health and function.

Identification and Certification of Nations; Notification of Effective Date of Information Collection Requirements

AGENCY: National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS), National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), Commerce.

ACTION: Final rule; notification of effective date.

SUMMARY: This rule provides notice of the effective date of the collection-of-information requirements first published in the Federal Register on January 12, 2011. The collection-of-information requirements pertained to documentation for imports of fishery products from nations that are negatively certified for illegal fishing or bycatch of protected resources. The Shark Conservation Act, established additional criteria for certifying nations, and the import documentation requirements were subsequently revised by a final rule published on January 16, 2013. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) approved the revised collection-of-information requirements upon publication of that final rule.

DATES: The amendments to 15 CFR 902.1 in this final rule are effective June 25, 2014. The revised information collection requirements contained in 50 CFR 300.206(b)(2), 300.207, and 300.208 were approved by OMB on January 16, 2013 (78 FR 3345, 3346), and are effective June 25, 2014.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Under the High Seas Driftnet Fishing Moratorium Protection Act (Moratorium Protection Act), as amended by the Magnuson-Stevens Reauthorization Act (Pub. L. 109-479) and the Shark Conservation Act (Pub. L. 111-348), the Secretary of Commerce is authorized to identify nations whose vessels are engaged in, or have been engaged in: Illegal, unreported and unregulated

(IUU) fishing; fishing activities that have bycatch of protected living marine resources (PLMR); and fishing for sharks on the high seas without adopting a regulatory program for the conservation of sharks comparable to that of the United States. Nations identified for IUU fishing, PLMR bycatch, or unsustainable shark fishing that do not take corrective action and do not subsequently receive a positive certification from the Secretary of Commerce may be subject to measures imposed by the Secretary of the Treasury under the High Seas Driftnet Fisheries Enforcement Act (16 U.S.C. 1826a). Such measures include the denial of port privileges for fishing vessels of those nations, and, as directed by the President, may include a prohibition on the importation into the United States of certain fish and fish products caught by the vessels engaged in the relevant activity for which the nations were identified, or other measures.

NMFS published a final rule to specify the procedures for identification and certification of nations under the High Seas Driftnet Moratorium Protection Act on January 12, 2011 (76 FR 2011). That final rule contained collection-of-information requirements specified in §§ 300.205(b)(2), 300.206(c), and 300.207(c). These regulations required documentation of admissibility for fishery products exported to the United States from nations that were not positively certified subsequent to identification by the United States for having vessels engaged in illegal, unreported and unregulated (IUU) fishing and/or bycatch of protected living marine resources. These collection-of-information requirements were not made effective in that final rule, pending approval of these requirements by OMB.

In a subsequent rulemaking, published on January 16, 2013 (78 FR 3338), § 300.205 was redesignated as § 300.206; § 300.206 was redesignated as § 300.207, § 300.207 was redesignated as § 300.208 and § 300.209 was added. The redesignated sections contained the original documentation requirements for exports of fishery products to the United States and the new section contained documentation requirements for exports of fishery products to the United States from nations that were not positively certified subsequent to identification by the United States for having vessels engaged in fishing for sharks on the high seas in a manner not comparable in effectiveness to the regulatory program of the United States. These revised collection-of-information requirements contained in §§ 300.206(b)(2),
