In accordance with 49 U.S.C. 31315(b)(6), DOT solicits comments from the public on the exemption request. DOT posts these comments, without edit, including any personal information the commenter provides, to www.regulations.gov. As described in the system of records notice DOT/ALL 14 (Federal Docket Management System), which can be reviewed at <https://www.transportation.gov/individuals/privacy/privacy-act-system-records-notices>, the comments are searchable by the name of the submitter.

II. Background

On September 27, 2023, FMCSA published a notice announcing receipt of an application from one individual with a diagnosis of narcolepsy and requested comments from the public (88 FR 66553). The individual requested an exemption from 49 CFR 391.41(b)(8) which prohibits operation of a CMV in interstate commerce by persons with either a clinical diagnosis of narcolepsy or any other condition that is likely to cause a loss of consciousness or any loss of ability to control a CMV. The public comment period ended on October 27, 2023, and no comments were received.

FMCSA has evaluated the eligibility of the applicant and concluded that granting an exemption would not provide a level of safety that would be equivalent to, or greater than, the level of safety that would be obtained by complying with § 391.41(b)(8). A summary of the applicant’s medical history related to the narcolepsy exemption request was discussed in the September 27, 2023, Federal Register notice and will not be repeated here.

The Agency considered information from the 2009 Evidence Report, “Narcolepsy (with and without cataplexy) and Commercial Motor Vehicle Driver Safety,” and the January 2010 Medical Review Board (MRB) recommendation that individuals with narcolepsy be ineligible for a commercial driver’s license, even with treatment. A copy of the Evidence Report is included in the docket.

Narcolepsy is a chronic neurological disorder caused by autoimmune destruction of hypocretin-producing neurons inhibiting the brain’s ability to regulate sleep-wake cycles normally. Persons with narcolepsy experience frequent excessive daytime sleepiness, comparable to how individuals without narcolepsy feel after 24 to 48 hours of sleep deprivation, as well as disturbed nocturnal sleep, which is often confused with insomnia. See National Institutes of Health Narcolepsy information at <https://www.ninds.nih.gov/health-information/disorders/narcolepsy>.

The 2009 Evidence Report, “Narcolepsy (with and without cataplexy) and Commercial Motor Vehicle Driver Safety,” addressed whether or not individuals with narcolepsy are at an increased risk for motor vehicle crashes; whether or not currently recommended treatments for narcolepsy reduce the risk for motor vehicle crashes; and the impact of various medication therapies for narcolepsy on driver safety.

The evidence report reviewed studies from the available literature and evaluated outcomes on measures of Excessive Daytime Sleepiness (EDS), cataplexy, event rate, measures of cognitive and psychomotor function, and driving performance. The currently available direct and indirect evidence supports the contention that drivers with narcolepsy are at an increased risk for a motor vehicle crash when compared to otherwise similar individuals who do not have the disorder. The direct evidence from three crash studies conducted of non-CMV drivers showed that individuals with narcolepsy are at an increased risk for a crash compared to individuals who do not have narcolepsy. The indirect evidence from studies of driving tests and driving simulation examined factors associated with simulated driving outcomes such as driving performance, tracking error, fewer correct responses, and more instances of going out of bounds compared to healthy controls. While there are limitations in the quality of the studies that examined direct crash risk, both the direct and indirect studies showed a strong effect size and statistical significance. The American Academy of Sleep Medicine (AASM) and the European Federation of Neurological Societies recommend modafinil as the first treatment option and methylphenidate as the second treatment option. The AASM also recommends amphetamine, methamphetamine, or dextroamphetamine as alternative treatments. During literature searches, no studies that directly examined the impact of treatment with modafinil, armodafinil, sodium oxybate (used with narcolepsy with cataplexy), or antidepressants on crash risk or driving performance were identified. Therefore, conclusions regarding treatment with these medications on crash risk and driving performance could not be made.

Currently available evidence suggests that amphetamines and/or methylphenidate are effective in improving symptoms of EDS in individuals with narcolepsy (quality of studies range from “moderate to low”). However, these improvements do not result in levels of daytime sleepiness that can be considered to be normal in the vast majority of individuals. Therefore, conclusions regarding the impact of treatment with amphetamines, methylphenidate, or other related stimulant drugs on cognitive and psychomotor function among individuals with narcolepsy could not be made.

In January 2010, FMCSA's MRB recommended that individuals with narcolepsy be ineligible for a commercial driver's license, even with treatment.

III. Discussion of Comments

FMCSA received no comments in this proceeding.

IV. Basis for Exemption Determination

Under 49 U.S.C. 31136(e) and 31315(b), FMCSA may grant an exemption from the FMCSRs for no longer than a 5-year period if it finds such exemption would likely achieve a level of safety that is equivalent to, or greater than, the level that would be achieved absent such exemption.

The Agency's decision regarding this exemption application is based on an individualized assessment of the applicant's medical information, available medical and scientific data concerning narcolepsy, and any relevant public comments received.

V. Conclusion

The Agency has determined that the available medical and scientific literature and research provides insufficient data to enable the Agency to conclude that granting this exemption would achieve a level of safety equivalent to, or greater than, the level of safety maintained without the exemption. Therefore, the following applicant has been denied an exemption from the physical qualification standards in § 391.41(b)(8):

Kevin Cunningham (TN)

The applicant has, prior to this notice, received a letter of final disposition regarding their exemption request. The decision letter fully outlined the basis for the denial and constitute final action by the Agency. The name of the individual published in this notice summarizes the Agency's recent denials as required under 49 U.S.C. 31315(b)(4).

Associate Administrator for Policy.
