* The estimated number of respondents reached from a sample of households will be 76,000. About 50 percent, or 38,000, of those respondents will sample in and receive a detailed interview. An additional 50 percent of those households where one person is sampled (19,000) will have a second person screened in for interviews. We estimate the total number of respondents to be 95,000 (76,000 + 19,000).

** Of the survey respondents, 5 percent from the screener workload and 6 percent from the third interview sportsmen and wildlife-watching user workloads are reinterviewed by another Census interviewer using a subset of the regular questionnaire. These reinterview responses are compared to the responses of the full interview as a quality control measure.

The total number of respondents can be calculated by adding up the household and participant responses and subtracting the reinterviews and the third interviews. There is some wave 1 and wave 2 overlap.

We expect the burden to be about 15 minutes for the sportsmen and 11 minutes for the wildlife-watching participants. We base the estimate for interview length on the 2001 survey and experience with similar surveys conducted within the past year. The combined total estimated hours of respondent burden is 32,254.

We invite your comments on: (1) Whether or not the collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency including whether or not the information will have practical utility; (2) the accuracy of the agency's estimate of the burden of the collection information; (3) ways to enhance the quality, utility and clarity of the information to be collected; and (4) ways to minimize the burden of the collection of information on respondents.

Dated: November 8, 2004.
