SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Currently, the Hazardous Materials Regulations (HMR; 49 CFR parts 171-180) allows for transport of cryogenic (or refrigerated) ethane in cryogenic truck trailers designated MC 331 or MC 338 under 49 CFR 173.315 and in UN T75 portable tanks in the 49 CFR 172.101 Hazardous Materials Table, special provisions column. Cryogenic ethane is not currently allowed to be shipped in DOT 113 rail tank cars. On August 20, 2021, Gas Innovations LNG Refrigerants Inc. (Gas Innovations), submitted an application for a special permit under § 107.105. Gas Innovations seeks a special permit for authorization to transport cryogenic ethane in DOT-113C120W9 and DOT-113C120W rail tank cars from Marcus Hook, Pennsylvania to locations along the Gulf Coast of the United States, Mexico, and Canada. Final destinations would be points in proximity to petrochemical or LNG liquefaction facilities where the ethane would receive further processing. Gas Innovations explains in its application (available at PHMSA-2022-0081) that ethane is a non-volatile organic compound that is more stable than ethylene, a material that is currently authorized for transportation by DOT-113C120W rail tank car under the HMR. Gas Innovations further states that, compared to ethylene, ethane has a lower vapor pressure, lower flammability in air, and a higher ignition temperature. Gas Innovations asserts that transport of cryogenic ethane is safer than transport of cryogenic ethylene. Gas Innovations explains that transportation of cryogenic ethylene is authorized in DOT-113C120W9 and DOT-113C120W rail tank cars consistent with the specifications set forth in 49 CFR part 179, subpart F which specify the design and construction requirements for cryogenic liquid tank car tanks. Finally, Gas Innovations notes that it has experience in the transportation of liquefied petroleum and other cryogenic products in rail tank cars. Gas Innovations believes that the lower risk profile of ethane compared to ethylene, together with the company's experience and expertise moving cryogenic products by rail tank car, will allow them to transport cryogenic ethane at the same level of safety under a special permit compared with what is currently authorized for rail transportation of cryogenic ethylene under the HMR.

PHMSA notes that the proposed special permit related to the transportation of cryogenic flammable liquids in rail tank cars raises similar considerations as the transportation of LNG and the subject of PHMSA's Notice of Proposed Rulemaking: Suspension of HMR Amendments Authorizing Transportation of Liquefied Natural Gas by Rail (Docket No. PHMSA-2021-0058).

PHMSA seeks comments from the public on the application for a special permit to transport cryogenic ethane via rail car. Specifically, PHMSA requests comments on the application and, if the special permit were to be approved, any specific operational controls which should be added to enhance safety and environmental impacts.

This notice of receipt of application for special permit is published in accordance with 49 CFR 107.127 and the Federal hazardous materials transportation law (49 U.S.C. 5117(b); 49 CFR 1.97(b)). Comments and answers in response to questions posed in this notice are governed by the information collection for special permits: OMB Control No. 2137-0051 (Rulemaking and Special Permit Applications).

Issued in Washington, DC, on November 29, 2022, under authority delegated in 49 CFR 1.97.

Donald P. Burger,

Chief, General Approvals and Permits Branch.

Title: Joint Standards for Assessing the Diversity Policies and Practices of Entities Regulated by the Agencies and Diversity Self-Assessment Template for OCC-Regulated Entities.

OMB Control No.: 1557–0334.

Abstract: This information collection sets forth standards for OCC-regulated entities to voluntarily self-assess their diversity and inclusion policies and practices and includes a template to assist with the self-assessment. The template is now a PDF fillable form, which replaces the current Excel spreadsheet template. No other substantive changes were made to the template. The template (1) asks for general information about a respondent; (2) includes questions and solicits comments for certain standards about program successes and challenges; (3) asks for a description of current practices for the self-assessment standards; (4) seeks additional diversity and inclusion data; and (5) provides an opportunity for a respondent to provide other information regarding or comment on the self-assessment of its diversity and inclusion policies and practices. The OCC may use the information submitted to monitor progress and trends in the financial services industry regarding diversity and inclusion in employment and contracting activities and to identify and highlight diversity and inclusion policies and practices that have been successful. The OCC will continue to reach out to the entities it regulates and other interested parties to discuss diversity and inclusion in the financial services industry and share leading practices. Finally, if an OCC-regulated entity submits confidential commercial information that is both customarily and actually treated as private by the entity, the entity can designate the information as private, and the OCC will treat the self-assessment information as private to the extent permitted by law, including the Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. 552, et seq.
