A. Program Description1. Program Authority and Research Question

FTA’s Public Transportation Innovation Program (49 U.S.C. 5312) supports research and demonstrations to develop and deploy ideas, practices and approaches that advance the interests of public transportation. This Notice of Funding Opportunity (NOFO) (Federal Assistance Listing: 20.530) will establish a research demonstration program to explore interventions that promote mobility access and reduce transportation insecurity and evaluate outcomes and impacts upon individuals and communities.

Transportation insecurity is the condition in which people are unable to regularly and reliably satisfy the travel necessary to meet the needs of daily life. Nationally, there are well-established policies and programs that aim to address food insecurity and housing insecurity, but not transportation insecurity. A growing body of research indicates that transportation insecurity is a significant factor in persistent poverty. This Program will develop and implement demonstrations that augment public transportation to mitigate transportation insecurity, and subsequently evaluate outcomes and effectiveness. This Program will also document the impacts and potential strategies to address transportation insecurity.

2. Program Components and Deliverables

The Program is comprised of several discrete components: (1) overall program management and coordination, (2) demonstration recruitment and selection through a two-stage competitive process, (3) human-centered demonstration design, (4) implementation of demonstrations, (5) demonstration cohort management and collaboration, and (6) structured quantitative and qualitative evaluation at the individual and aggregated levels culminating with a peer-reviewed report of findings.

The Program Lead is encouraged to assemble and lead appropriate partnerships to deliver all components of the Program.

Applicants must submit, attached to a SF–424, a narrative proposal describing their ability to satisfy all required
