Abstract of Information Available

Based on the information available, human remains representing, at least, one individual have been reasonably identified. No associated funerary objects are present. At an unknown date, an individual named Mrs. Stahl discovered ancestral remains representing a minimum of one individual in her garden in Sheboygan County, Wisconsin. At an unknown date, Dr. Ruth Herrick acquired the remains from Stahl. Museum records indicate Stahl resided on Weeks Road. However, no exact location has been identified. Herrick (1895-1974) was an amateur archaeologist and an avid collector of ancestral remains, funerary objects and cultural objects. In 1974 the Grand Rapids Public Museum acquired these remains from Dr. Ruth Herrick by bequest.
