Abstract: As required by the Clean Air Act, EPA has regulations establishing emission standards and other requirements for various classes of vehicles, engines, and evaporative emission components. These regulations require a manufacturer to demonstrate compliance prior to EPA granting it a "Certificate of Conformity." EPA charges fees for administering this certification program. In 2004 and subsequently in 2008 the fees program was expanded to include nonroad categories of vehicles and engines, such as several categories of marine engines, locomotives, non-road recreational vehicles, many nonroad compression-ignition and spark-ignition engines and evaporative emission components. Manufacturers and importers of covered vehicles, engines and components are required to pay the applicable certification fees prior to their certification applications being reviewed by the Agency. Under section 208 of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7542(c)) all information, other than trade secret processes or methods, must be publicly available. Information about fee payments is treated as confidential information prior to certification.

Form Numbers: 3520-29.

Respondents/affected entities:

Manufacturers or importers of passenger cars, motorcycles, light trucks, heavy-duty truck engines, nonroad vehicles or engines, and evaporative emission components are required to receive a certificate of conformity from EPA prior to selling or introducing these products into commerce in the U.S.

Respondent's obligation to respond:

Required to obtain or retain a benefit (40 CFR part 1027).

Estimated number of respondents:

579 (total).

Frequency of response: An average of approximately nine responses per respondent per year.

Total estimated burden: 1022 hours (per year). Burden is defined at 5 CFR 1320.03(b).

Total estimated cost: $77,444 (per year), includes $12,364 annualized capital or operation and maintenance costs.

Changes in the estimates: There is a slight increase of three hours in the total estimated respondent burden compared with the ICR currently approved by OMB. This slight increase is due to the variability in the number of certificates and, therefore, the number of fees paid from year to year. The estimate of the costs associated with the fees program have increased from $67,445 to $77,444 due to wage estimate increases.

Courtney Kerwin,

Director, Regulatory Support Division.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The NEJAC is a Federal advisory committee chartered under the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA), Public Law 92-463. EPA established the NEJAC in 1993 to provide independent consensus advice to the EPA Administrator about a broad range of environmental issues related to environmental justice. The NEJAC conducts business in accordance with the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA) (5 U.S.C. App. 2) and related regulations. In accordance with Executive Order 14035, EPA values and welcomes opportunities to increase diversity, equity, inclusion, and accessibility on its Federal advisory committees. EPA's Federal advisory committees have a workforce that reflects the diversity of the American people.

The Council consists of 32 members (including two Co-Chairpersons and two Vice-Chairpersons) appointed by EPA's Administrator. Members serve as non-Federal stakeholders who represent academia, business and industry; community-based organizations; non-governmental/environmental organizations; state and local governments; tribal governments and indigenous organizations, of which one member serves as a liaison to the National Tribal Caucus. Members are appointed for one (1); two (2) or three (3)-year terms with the possibility of reappointment for another term.

The NEJAC usually convenes 4 to 6 times a year, generally meeting face-to-face twice (2) a year in the Spring and the Fall and virtually for the remaining meetings. Additionally, members will be asked to participate in work groups to develop recommendations, advice letters, and reports to address specific policy issues. The average workload for members is approximately 20 to 25 hours per month, not including public meeting hours and with the expectation that the member will take part in two (2) or more workgroup activities. EPA provides reimbursement for travel and other incidental expenses associated with official Government business.

Nominations: Any interested person and/or organization may nominate qualified individuals for membership. Individuals are encouraged to self-nominate. The EPA values and welcomes opportunities to increase diversity, equity, inclusion and accessibility on its Federal advisory committees and is seeking to obtain nominations from all geographic locations of the United States of America. The average workload for members is approximately 20 to 25 hours per month, not including public meeting hours and with the expectation that the member will take part in two (2) or more workgroup activities.
