

industry parties in detailed technical harmonization work and the application of a science-based approach to harmonization through a consensus-driven process that results in the development of ICH guidelines. The regulators around the world are committed to consistently adopting these consensus-based guidelines, realizing the benefits for patients and for industry.

As a Founding Regulatory Member of ICH, FDA plays a major role in the development of each of the ICH guidelines, which FDA then adopts and issues as guidance for industry. FDA's guidance documents do not establish legally enforceable responsibilities. Instead, they describe the Agency's current thinking on a topic and should be viewed only as recommendations, unless specific regulatory or statutory requirements are cited.

In September 2022, the ICH Assembly endorsed the draft guideline entitled "M11 Clinical Electronic Structured Harmonised Protocol (CeSHarP)" and two supplemental documents entitled "M11 Template," and "M11 Technical Specification" and agreed that the materials should be made available for public comment. The draft guideline and supplemental documents are the product of the Multidisciplinary Expert Working Group of the ICH. Comments about these draft guidances will be considered by FDA and the Multidisciplinary Expert Working Group.

The draft guidance provides recommendations for a harmonized clinical trial protocol including the organization of standardized content and formatting. The draft template identifies headers, common text, and a set of data fields and terminologies that will be the basis for efficiencies in data exchange. The technical specification recommends the use of an open, nonproprietary standard to enable electronic exchange of clinical protocol information. The intent of the draft guidance and supporting documents is to create an international standard for the content and exchange of clinical trial protocol information facilitating review and assessment by regulators, sponsors, ethical oversight bodies, investigators, and other stakeholders.

The draft guidance has been left in the original ICH format. The final guidance and supporting materials will be reformatted and edited to conform with FDA's good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115) and style before publication. The draft guidance, template, and technical specification when finalized, will represent the current thinking of FDA on the topics they address. They do not establish any rights for any person and are not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

While this guidance contains no collection of information, it does refer to previously approved FDA collections of information. Therefore, clearance by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA) (44 U.S.C. 3501–3521) is not required for this guidance. The previously approved collections of information are subject to review by OMB under the PRA. The collections of information in 21 CFR part 312 pertaining to clinical trial design and protocols have been approved under OMB control number 0910–0014. The collections of information pertaining to good clinical practice and for the implementation of improved and efficient approaches to clinical trial design have been approved under OMB control number 0910–0843.
