

as Ysleta Del Sur Pueblo of Texas); and the Zuni Tribe of the Zuni Reservation, New Mexico (hereafter referred to as "The Consulted Tribes").

History and Description of the Remains

In 1976, human remains representing, at minimum, five individuals were removed from the Puerco River Valley (north of Interstate 40) in Bernalillo County, NM, and given to the Maxwell Museum by a surveyor for a proposed water line by the Westland Corporation, who owned the land at that time. The only burial information provided by the surveyor are general directional distinctions. The human remains belong to five adults of indeterminate sex. No known individuals were identified. The 36 associated funerary objects are two pottery sherds, one ground stone, one charcoal fragment, two faunal bones, 12 beads, one lithic core, one lithic flake, one faunal bone, one lot of faunal bone, one ceramic sherd, one lithic biface, three lithic flakes, and nine pottery sherds.

The undecorated grayware ceramic fragments associated with these individuals suggest a date range for these human remains between A.D. 750 and 1600. The combination of the grayware pottery sherds, flaked lithics, and beads show that these human remains are Native American. Based on geographical information, these human remains and associated funerary objects are culturally affiliated with the Pueblo of Isleta, New Mexico; Pueblo of Sandia, New Mexico; and the Ysleta del Sur Pueblo (previously listed as Ysleta Del Sur Pueblo of Texas).

Determinations Made by the Maxwell Museum of Anthropology, University of New Mexico
