The unassociated funerary belongings include beads, worked stone, baked clay, faunal remains, wood, and worked bone.

No records have been found to date at the Museum to indicate whether or not chemicals or natural substances were used prior to 1960.

Determinations

The University of California, Berkeley has determined that:

The unassociated funerary objects have been identified by a preponderance of the evidence as related to human remains, specific individuals, or families, or removed from a specific burial site or burial area of an individual or individuals with cultural affiliation to an Indian Tribe or Native Hawaiian organization.
- There is a reasonable connection between the cultural items described in this notice and the Wilton Rancheria, California.

If competing requests for repatriation are received, the University of California, Berkeley must determine the most appropriate requestor prior to repatriation. Requests for joint repatriation of the cultural items are considered a single request and not competing requests. The University of California, Berkeley is responsible for sending a copy of this notice to the Indian Tribes and Native Hawaiian organizations identified in this notice and to any other consulting parties.

Abstract of Information Available

A total of 9,241 cultural items have been requested for repatriation. The 9,241 objects of cultural patrimony include groundstone, flaked stone, unmodified faunal remains, floral remains, unmodified stones, manuports, soil samples, and historic items.

In 1990, two cultural items were purchased at the Redwood Acres Flea Market and donated to Humboldt State University (now Cal Poly Humboldt) by an anonymous donor. Written testimony from the anonymous donor, as well as an accompanying newspaper article clipping, indicates that these cultural items were removed from CA-HUM-351/H located in Arcata, California.

In 1991, one cultural item was removed from an unknown site (referred to as Mad River 2010) near the Mad River located in Humboldt County, California. No associated paperwork or documentation could be located, and it is unclear how the cultural item came to be held in the collections at Cal Poly Humboldt. However, a brief note accompanying the cultural item indicates it may have been collected by archaeologist Peter Dudley of Humboldt State University (now Cal Poly Humboldt).

In 1992, one cultural item was removed from an unknown site (referred to as Shirley Boulevard) located in Arcata, California. No associated paperwork or documentation could be located, and it is unclear how the cultural item came to be held in the collections at Cal Poly Humboldt.

In 1992, one cultural item was removed from an unknown site (referred to as Mad River Beach 1992) near Mad River Beach located in Tyee City, California. No associated paperwork or documentation could be located, and it is unclear how the cultural item came to be held in the collections at Cal Poly Humboldt.

In 1993, three cultural items were removed from CA-HUM-25/P-12-000083 (also known as Loud's 25) located in Samoa, California. The cultural items were removed from the site by archaeologists Allan Bramlette and Peter Dudley of Humboldt State University (now Cal Poly Humboldt). Of these cultural items, one is listed as missing in the catalog. Cal Poly Humboldt is working to locate this item. Should Cal Poly Humboldt locate this item, it will be considered part of this repatriation.
