

trade with multiple counterparties (a so-called “one-to-many” trade)?

6.4 Should trades in different market segments or on different venues be displayed differently? For example, the interdealer market often operates on a microsecond level, often through automated trading on electronic centralized order books. In contrast, the dealer-to-customer market, while utilizing electronic trading more than in the past, still exhibits a significant amount of manual or voice-based trades. Should these transactions be treated or displayed differently, and if so, why and in what way?

7. Late Transactions and Revisions

7.1 How should late transactions and revisions be addressed in the publicly disseminated data?

7.2 To what extent should the volume of late transactions and revisions influence dissemination timing?

Brian Smith,

Deputy Assistant Secretary for Federal Finance.
