Chief Risk Officer, Internal Revenue Service, Office of the Chief Risk Officer, Enterprise Risk Management, 1111 Constitution Ave. NW, Washington, DC 20224–0002; telephone: (801) 612–4815.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2) (31 CFR 1.36), the head of any agency may promulgate rules to exempt any system of records within the agency from certain provisions of the Privacy Act if the system is investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes that is not within the scope of 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) (which applies to agencies and components thereof that perform as their principal function any activity pertaining to the enforcement of criminal laws).

The IRS is hereby giving notice of a proposed rule to exempt “34.018, Treasury/IRS Insider Risk Management Records” from certain provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2). The proposed exemptions are from sections 552a(c)(3), (d)(1)–(4), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (e)(4)(H), (e)(4)(I), and (f) because the system contains investigatory material compiled for law enforcement purposes. The following are the reasons this system of records maintained by the IRS may be exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(2):

1. 5 U.S.C. 552a(c)(3) requires an agency to make accountings of disclosures of a record available to the individual named in the record upon their request. Any such accountings must state the date, nature, and purpose of each disclosure of the record and the name and address of the recipient. Applying this subsection could alert the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil, or regulatory violation to the existence of that investigation and reveal investigative interest on the part of the IRS. Disclosure of an accounting would therefore present a serious impediment to the IRS, Treasury, and other law enforcement agencies by permitting the subject of record to impede investigations, to tamper with witnesses or evidence, and to avoid detection or apprehension, which would undermine the entire investigative process. In the case of a delinquent account, such release might enable the subject of the investigation to dissipate assets before levy. When an investigation has been completed, information on disclosures made may continue to be exempted if the fact that an investigation occurred remains sensitive after completion.

2. 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(1), (e)(4)(H) and (f)(2), (3) and (5) grant individuals access to records pertaining to them. An exemption from these provisions is appropriate because providing access to such records could inform the subject of an investigation of an actual or potential criminal, civil, or regulatory violation to the existence of that investigation and reveal investigative interest on the part of the IRS or another bureau or agency. Access to the records could permit the subject of a record to impede the investigation, to tamper with witnesses or evidence, and to avoid detection or apprehension. In addition, permitting access to such information could disclose security-sensitive information that could be detrimental to the IRS. Agency rules are exempt from the individual access provisions of subsection 5 U.S.C. 552a for this system of records, therefore, the IRS and Treasury are not required to establish requirements, rules or procedures with respect to such access.

3. 5 U.S.C. 552a(d)(2), (3) and (4), (e)(4)(H), and (f)(4) permit an individual to request amendment of a record pertaining to them and require the agency to provide notice on how to request an amendment, and provide procedures for reviewing, making determinations and the appeal process concerning amendments. Because these provisions depend on the individual having access to their records, and since this rule exempts the IRS system of records from the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 552a relating to access to records for the reasons set forth above, these provisions do not apply. Furthermore, an exemption from this requirement is appropriate because allowing individuals to amend certain records that pertain to them would interfere with the mechanism of ongoing investigations and law enforcement activities and would impose an unreasonable administrative burden by requiring investigations to be continually reinvestigated. In addition, permitting amendment to such information could disclose security-sensitive information that could be detrimental to the IRS.

4. 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1) requires an agency to maintain in its records only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency required by statute or Executive order. Maintenance of information, as defined in 5 U.S.C. 552a(a)(3), includes the collection and dissemination of information. An exemption from this provision is therefore appropriate because its application would require the IRS to make determinations at the time of collection about the relevance and necessity of collected information. Speculative determinations about the relevance and necessity of collected information may be impossible to determine immediately, as information that initially appears irrelevant and unnecessary, often may prove particularly valuable, therefore application of this provision to the system of records could impair the Department's ability to collect, utilize and disseminate valuable law enforcement information.

5. 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(G) and (f)(1) enable individuals to inquire whether a system of records contains records pertaining to them. An exemption from these provisions is appropriate because alerting individuals involved in illegal activity that the IRS has, or does not have, information that could lead to them being identified for investigation allows them to take steps to avoid detection, begin, continue, or resume illegal conduct upon learning that they are not identified in the system of records; or destroy evidence needed to prove the violation, all of which could undermine the IRS's ability to carry out its mission.

6. 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(4)(I) requires an agency to publish a general notice listing the categories of sources for information contained in a system of records. The application of this provision to the system of records could disclose investigative techniques and cause informants to refuse to give full information for fear their identities as sources could be disclosed, subjecting them to threats or reprisals. This could compromise the IRS's ability to complete or continue investigations or to share useful information to law enforcement agencies.

The IRS is also hereby giving notice of a proposed rule to exempt "34.018 Treasury/IRS Insider Risk Management Records" from certain provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5). The proposed exemptions are from provisions 552a(c)(3), (d)(1)–(4), (e)(1), (e)(4)(G), (e)(4)(H), (e)(4)(I), and (f) because the system contains investigatory material compiled solely for the purpose of determining suitability, eligibility, or qualifications for Federal civilian employment, Federal contracts, or access to classified information.. The following are the reasons this system of records maintained by the IRS may be exempted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552a(k)(5):

1. The sections of 5 U.S.C. 552a from which the systems of records are exempt generally provide for individuals' access to or amendment of records. Such access may reveal the identity of a confidential source under an express promise that the source's identity would be held in confidence. This could hinder the IRS's ability to obtain future confidential sources. In addition, 5 U.S.C. 552a(e)(1) is unduly restrictive in requiring the IRS to maintain only such information about an individual as is relevant and necessary to accomplish a purpose of the agency as required by a statute or executive order, since it is often not until well after the investigation that it is possible to determine the relevance and necessity of particular information.

2. IRS claims the exemptions 5 U.S.C. 552a(j)(2) and (k)(2) if any investigatory material contained in the above-named system becomes involved in criminal or civil matters.

Procedural Matters

As required by Executive Order 12866, it has been determined that this proposed rule is not a significant regulatory action, and therefore, does not require a regulatory impact analysis.

The regulation will not have a substantial direct effect on the States, on the relationship between the Federal Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, it is determined that this proposed rule does not have federalism implications under Executive Order 13132.

Pursuant to the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601–612, it is hereby certified that these regulations will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The proposed rule imposes no duties or obligations on small entities.

In accordance with the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, the Department of the Treasury has determined that this proposed rule would not impose new recordkeeping, application, reporting, or other types of information collection requirements.

II. Background, Purpose, and Legal Basis

On March 4, 2024, an organization notified the Coast Guard that it will be conducting the 17th annual high speed boat race from 8 a.m. to noon on June 21, 2024. The boat race is to be held in the waters of Clear Lake, in Clear Creek, TX. The Captain of the Port Houston-Galveston (COTP) has determined that potential hazards associated with the power boat race will be a safety concern for anyone within the Pre-Stage Zone, Approach Zone, Course Run Zone, and Shut-Down Zone before, during, and after the scheduled event.

The Texas Outlaw Challenge Boat Race, in Clear Lake, Clear Creek, TX, occurs on an annually recurring basis. Historically, the Coast Guard has established annual temporary final regulations for this marine event. This proposed rule would consistently inform the public in a timely manner through permanent publication in Title 33 of the Code of Federal Regulations. This proposed rule would add a recurring marine event requiring a special local regulation to TABLE 3 of 33 CFR 100.801—Sector Houston-Galveston Annual and Recurring Marine Events. By establishing permanent regulations for this marine event, the Coast Guard would eliminate the need to establish temporary rules on an annual basis and thereby limit the costs associated with cumulative regulations. The purpose of this rulemaking is to protect personnel, vessels, and the marine environment in the navigable waters within the Pre-Stage Zone, Approach Zone, Course Run Zone, and Shut-Down Zone before, during and after the annual Texas Outlaw Challenge power boat race in Clear Lake, TX. The Coast Guard is proposing this rulemaking under authority in 46 U.S.C. 70041.

In order to allow a 30-day public comment period, the Coast Guard anticipates issuing a final rule with an effective date less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register. Should that occur, we will explain our good cause for doing so in that publication, as required by 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3).

III. Discussion of Proposed Rule

The COTP is proposing to establish a special local regulation from 8 a.m. to noon on a Friday of the third week of June. The special local regulation will encompass five different zones to include the Pre-Stage Zone, Approach Zone, Course Run Zone, Shut-Down Zone, and the Spectator Zone as described below:

Pre-Stage Zone: This area is the pre-staging area for participating vessels to line up. It will include all waters within the following areas 29°33.13 N, 095°01.84 W thence to 29°33.12 N, 095°01.89 W thence to 29°33.23 N, 095°01.96 W thence to 29°33.13 N, 095°01.84 W.

Approach Zone: ¼ mile distance required for participating vessels to obtain the minimum 40 mph requirement for course entry. This will be a straight line to begin at approximately 29°33.256 N, 095°01.89 W and end at approximately 29°33.33 N, 095°02.15 W.

Course Run Zone: ¾ mile distance where participating vessels will conduct their high-speed run. This will be a straight line to begin at approximately 29°33.33 N, 095°02.16 W and end at approximately 29°33.53 N, 095°02.98 W.

Shut-Down Zone: 1 mile distance where participating vessels will be allowed to slow their speeds back to an idle. This will be a straight line to begin at approximately 29°33.53 N, 095°02.98 W and end at approximately 29°33.74 N, 095°04.1 W.

Spectator Zone: All vessels that will be viewing the event will be required to stay within a designated area. The sponsor is responsible for marking the spectator zone with 4 buoys on the outer
