

contributor is poorly trained drivers who are issued CDLs. I oppose Minnesota's request and struggle to understand why the state hasn't adopted the standardized testing to make it work. I believe it's haphazard to approve a plan without a written summary outlining the supposed better way. If Minnesota's way is better, then perhaps the FMCSR should be revised to follow suit. I see a slippery slope in non-standardized testing expanding by allowing Minnesota to deviate from standardized practices.

VIII. FMCSA Response to Comments and Decision

FMCSA carefully reviewed Minnesota's petition for reconsideration and the public comments. The Agency has concluded that Minnesota provided no additional information that would affect FMCSA's 2017 denial of the request for relief from use of the AAMVA testing model and no additional information to persuade the Agency to allow the State to conduct a two-part skills test. Therefore, the Agency denies the application for exemption from the CDL regulations and reaffirms its previous denial.

FMCSA believes that conducting the elements of the CDL skills test in order (i.e., pre-trip, vehicle control skills test, on-road skills test) is the best practice for the safety and efficiency of the tester.

Deputy Administrator.
