ACTION: Rescinding of a system of records notice.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA), Office of the Chief Financial Officer, Office of Technology Solutions is giving notice that it proposes to rescind a system of records pursuant to the provisions of the Privacy Act of 1974. The Superfund Cost Recovery Package Imaging and On-Line System (SCORPIOS) system of records (EPA–39) is being rescinded because the e-Recovery system of records (EPA–90) replaces it. EPA is now using the e-Recovery system to organize and produce reports to recover costs associated with its response to releases or threatened releases of hazardous substances, or discharges or threatened discharges of oil.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: EPA has the authority to recover costs associated with its response to releases or threatened releases of hazardous substances, or discharges or threatened discharges of oil. To support the recovery of certain removal costs associated with threatened or actual discharges of oil, EPA submits a Cost Recovery Package (CRP) to the U.S. Coast Guard (USCG). Previously, EPA used SCORPIOS to prepare the CRP; however, because SCORPIOS uses old technology that has become difficult and expensive for the Agency to maintain, the SCORPIOS system (EPA–39) is replaced with the more modern e-Recovery system (EPA–90). The information previously stored in SCORPIOS is now stored in the e-Recovery system. Information about the e-Recovery system and its system of records notice was published in the Federal Register (86 FR 31,307) on June 11, 2021.
