

Kagamil Island and Ship Rock Island

At an unknown date, an unknown individual removed nine associated funerary objects from a site—likely Cold Cave, Warm Cave, or Mask Cave—on Kagamil Island and from Ship Rock Cave on Ship Rock Island. (Possibly, Aleš Hrdlička removed these objects in 1937 and 1938.) The objects were housed at the Burke Museum in Seattle, WA, until 2016, when they were transferred to the University of Alaska Museum of the North. All nine associated funerary objects—seven from Kagamil Island and two from Ship Rock Island—are matting fragments.

Carlisle Island

In 1948 or 1949, physical anthropologist William S. Laughlin removed human remains representing, at minimum, one individual and six associated funerary objects from Carlisle Island. In 2019, the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology at Harvard University transferred these remains and objects to the University of Alaska Museum in Fairbanks. The human remains belong to a juvenile individual. No known individual was identified. The six associated funerary objects are one pumice ground stone, two clam shells, one stone pallet, one matting fragment, and one worked bone.

Cultural Affiliation

The human remains and associated funerary objects in this notice are connected to one or more identifiable earlier groups, tribes, peoples, or cultures. There is a relationship of shared group identity between the identifiable earlier groups, tribes, peoples, or cultures and one or more Indian Tribes or Native Hawaiian organizations. The following types of information were used to reasonably trace the relationship: anthropological, archeological, geographical, biological, historical, oral traditional, and expert opinion

Determinations

Pursuant to NAGPRA and its implementing regulations, and after consultation with the appropriate Indian Tribes and Native Hawaiian organizations, FWS Alaska have determined that:

- The human remains described in this notice represent the physical remains of 13 individuals of Alaska Native ancestry.
- The 148 objects described in this notice are reasonably believed to have been placed with or near individual human remains at the time of death or later as part of the death rite or ceremony.

- There is a relationship of shared group identity that can be reasonably traced between the human remains and associated funerary objects described in this notice and the Native Village of Nikolski.

Requests for Repatriation

Written requests for repatriation of the human remains and associated funerary objects in this notice must be sent to the Responsible Official identified in ADDRESSES. Requests for repatriation may be submitted by:

1. Any one or more of the Indian Tribes or Native Hawaiian organizations identified in this notice.
2. Any lineal descendant, Indian Tribe, or Native Hawaiian organization not identified in this notice who shows, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the requestor is a lineal descendant or a culturally affiliated Indian Tribe or Native Hawaiian organization.

Repatriation of the human remains and associated funerary objects in this notice to a requestor may occur on or after May 17, 2023. If competing requests for repatriation are received, FWS Alaska must determine the most appropriate requestor prior to repatriation. Requests for joint repatriation of the human remains and associated funerary objects are considered a single request and not competing requests. FWS Alaska is responsible for sending a copy of this notice to the Indian Tribe identified in this notice.

SUMMARY: The Commission hereby gives notice of the scheduling of expedited reviews pursuant to the Tariff Act of 1930 ("the Act") to determine whether revocation of the countervailing duty order on tool chests and cabinets from China and the antidumping duty orders on tool chests and cabinets from China and Vietnam would be likely to lead to continuation or recurrence of material injury within a reasonably foreseeable time.

DATES: March 6, 2023.

The public record for this proceeding may be viewed on the Commission's electronic docket (EDIS) at <https://edis.usitc.gov>.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background.—On March 6, 2023, the Commission determined that the domestic interested party group response to its notice of institution (87 FR 73786, December 1, 2022) of the subject five-year reviews was adequate and that the respondent interested party group response was inadequate.
