

2021 with two production shifts per day, operating seven days per week.

(e) The Haile Gold Mine proposes to provide the required mine rescue coverage during the expanded underground development with 12 fully trained employees. The underground development team will be comprised of current surface mine rescue, safety, and underground department employees, not all of whom will meet the required one year of underground rescue experience.

The petitioner proposes the following alternative method:

(a) Prior to initiation of underground development, each underground mine rescue team member will receive the following training from a fully qualified MSHA Underground Mine Rescue instructor:

1. 40 hours of 30 CFR. part 48 Underground Mining Safety Training;
2. Successful completion of physical/medical fitness exam in compliance with 30 CFR 49.7;
3. 20 hours of initial underground mine rescue training on the use, care, and maintenance of a BG-4 positive pressure closed circuit breathing apparatus;
4. First Aid and CPR certification; and
5. All other training required in 30 CFR part 49.

(b) A mine rescue station will be established on site compliant with 30 CFR 49.5.

(c) As the underground mine develops, additional surface mine rescue personnel onsite will receive the following training from a fully qualified MSHA Underground Mine Rescue instructor:

1. Successful completion of physical/medical fitness exam in compliance with 30 CFR 49.7;
2. 40 hours of 30 CFR part 48 Underground Mining Safety Training;
3. 20 hours of initial underground mine rescue training on the use, care, and maintenance on a BG-4 positive pressure closed circuit breathing apparatus; and;
4. All other training required in 30 CFR part 49.

(d). All underground rescue team members will attend monthly training following 30 CFR part 49 requirements after completion of their initial 20 hours of training.

The petitioner asserts that the alternate method proposed will at all times guarantee no less than the same measure of protection afforded the miners under the mandatory standard.

Director, Office of Standards, Regulations, and Variances.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

Section 103(h) of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977 (Mine Act), 30 U.S.C. 813(h), authorizes MSHA to collect information necessary to carry out its duty in protecting the safety and health of miners. Further, section 101(a) of the Mine Act, 30 U.S.C. 811, authorizes the Secretary of Labor to develop, promulgate, and revise as may be appropriate, improved mandatory health or safety standards for the protection of life and prevention of injuries in coal or other mines.

Independent contractors perform services or construction at a mine. They may be engaged in every type of work performed at a mine, including activities such as clearing land, excavating ore, processing minerals, maintaining or repairing equipment, or constructing new buildings or new facilities, such as shafts, hoists, conveyors, or kilns. Independent contractors vary in the number of employees, the type of work performed, and the time spent working at mine sites. Some contractors work exclusively at mining operations while others may work a single contract at a mine and never return to MSHA jurisdiction. MSHA uses the contractor information in this information collection request during inspections to determine the responsibility for compliance with safety and health standards.

II. Desired Focus of Comments

MSHA is soliciting comments concerning the proposed information collection related to Independent Contractor Registration and Identification. MSHA is particularly interested in comments that:

- Evaluate whether the collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the Agency, including whether the information has practical utility;
- Evaluate the accuracy of MSHA's estimate of the burden of the collection of information, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used;
- Suggest methods to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and
- Minimize the burden of the collection of information on those who are to respond, including through the use of appropriate automated, electronic, mechanical, or other technological collection techniques or other forms of information technology, e.g., permitting electronic submission of responses.
