SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On July 29, 2025, the DoD published a notice titled “Proposed Collection; Comment Request” for Innovative Readiness Training Community Application; OMB Control Number 0704-0583 at 90 FR 35670. Subsequent to publication of the notice in the Federal Register, DoD realized that the notice had already published on January 10, 2025 (90 FR 1989-1990). The notice that published on July 29, 2025 should have been titled “Submission for OMB Review; Comment Request” and followed the usual format of that notice type. The DoD is publishing the July 29, 2025 notice in its entirety, this time correctly.

Title; Associated Form; and OMB Number: Innovative Readiness Training DD3225, “Community Application to Request Civil-Military Partnership and Support”; OMB Control Number 0704-0583.

Type of Request: Revision.

Number of Respondents: 250.

Responses per Respondent: 1.

Annual Responses: 250.

Average Burden per Response: 5.5 hours.

Annual Burden Hours: 1,375.

Needs and Uses: This information collection is necessary to support the Department of Defense’s Innovative Readiness Training (IRT) program. Each year the military collects voluntary applications from communities requesting participation in IRT support activities. Communities respond to the collection as they will have a chance to receive incidental support and services from the DoD during the conduct of the IRT support and training. Currently, most IRT support activities are in the form of civil engineering projects, cyber, or medical care. However, IRT support is not limited to these, and any application is considered for its potential training value and incidental community benefit. The information collected allows the best possible match between the community and military training requirements while ensuring each applicant is eligible to receive support and services under 10 U.S.C. 2012.

Affected Public: Federal, State, local, or tribal governments.

Frequency: On occasion.

Respondents Obligation: Voluntary.

DoD Clearance Officer: Mr. Reginald Lucas.

Dated: July 30, 2025.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The draft report titled “A Critical Review of Impacts of Greenhouse Gas Emissions on the U.S. Climate” was developed by DOE’s 2025 Climate Working Group, a group of five independent scientists assembled by Energy Secretary Chris Wright with diverse expertise in physical science, academic research and climate science. The landing page for the CWG Report, including a press release, can be found here: www.energy.gov/topics/climate.

Overview of the CWG Report

The report reviews scientific certainties and uncertainties in how anthropogenic carbon dioxide (CO₂) and other greenhouse gas emissions have affected, or will affect, the Nation’s climate, extreme weather events, and selected metrics of societal well-being. Those emissions are increasing the concentration of CO₂ in the atmosphere through a complex and variable carbon cycle, where some portion of the additional CO₂ persists in the atmosphere for centuries.

Elevated concentrations of CO₂ directly enhance plant growth, globally contributing to “greening” the planet and increasing agricultural productivity. They also make the oceans less alkaline (lower the pH). That is possibly detrimental to coral reefs, although the recent rebound of the Great Barrier Reef suggests otherwise.

Carbon dioxide also acts as a greenhouse gas, exerting a warming influence on climate and weather. Climate change projections require scenarios of future emissions. There is evidence that scenarios widely-used in the impacts literature have overstated observed and likely future emission trends.

The world’s several dozen global climate models offer little guidance on how much the climate responds to elevated CO₂, with the average surface warming under a doubling of the CO₂ concentration ranging from 1.8° C to 5.7° C. Data-driven methods yield a lower and narrower range. Global climate models generally run “hot” in their description of the climate of the past few decades. The combination of overly sensitive models and implausible extreme scenarios for future emissions yields exaggerated projections of future warming.

Most extreme weather events in the U.S. do not show long-term trends. Claims of increased frequency or intensity of hurricanes, tornadoes,
