SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 751(c) of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended ("the Act"), the United States International Trade Commission ("the Commission") determined that revocation of the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Argentina is not likely to lead to continuation or recurrence of material injury to an industry in the United States within a reasonably foreseeable time (66 FR 8981 (February 5, 2001)). Therefore, pursuant to section 751(d)(2) of the Act and 19 CFR 351.222(i)(1), the Department of Commerce ("the Department") is revoking the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Argentina. Background

On November 2, 1999, the Department initiated (64 FR 59160), and the Commission instituted (64 FR 59209), a sunset review of the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Argentina, pursuant to section 751(c) of the Act. As a result of its review, the Department found that revocation of the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Argentina would likely lead to continuation or recurrence of dumping, and notified the Commission of the magnitude of the margin likely to prevail were the antidumping duty order revoked. See Silicon Metal From Argentina; Final Results of Expedited Sunset Review of Antidumping Duty Order, 65 FR 35608 (June 5, 2000).

On February 5, 2001, the Commission determined, pursuant to section 751(c) of the Act, that revocation of the antidumping duty order on silicon metal from Argentina would not likely lead to continuation or recurrence of material injury to an industry in the United States within a reasonably foreseeable time. See Silicon Metal From Argentina, 66 FR 8981 (February 5, 2001), and USITC Pub. 3385, (January 2001), Investigations Nos. 731-TA-470-472 (Review).

Also subject to this order is silicon metal containing between 89.00 and 96.00 percent silicon by weight but which contains a higher aluminum content than the silicon metal containing at least 96.00 percent but less than 99.99 percent silicon by weight (65 FR 5311, February 3, 2000). Silicon metal is currently provided under subheadings 2804.69.10 and 2804.69.50 of the Harmonized Tariff Schedule ("HTS") as a chemical product, but is commonly referred to as a metal. Although the HTS numbers are provided for convenience and customs purposes, the written description remains dispositive.

Determination
