I. Background

MDEpiNet is a collaborative program through which the Center for Devices and Radiological Health and external partners share information and resources to enhance our understanding of how well medical devices work (<http://www.fda.gov/mdepinet>). By bridging evidentiary gaps, developing datasets, and innovating methodological approaches for conducting robust analytic studies, MDEpiNet aims to develop new ways to study medical devices that improve the understanding of safety and effectiveness performance throughout a device's life cycle.

Accomplishing MDEpiNet's mission will require leveraging of resources, skills, and expertise from a variety of partners, and we encourage participation from all stakeholders, including other Government Agencies, academia, health care industry organizations, and patient and consumer groups. The purpose of the public workshop is to facilitate discussion among these key stakeholders in the scientific community on issues related to medical device epidemiology methodology and infrastructure as it relates to evidence generation and synthesis across the Total Product Life Cycle. This public workshop is open to all interested parties. The target audience is professionals from other Government Agencies, academia, professional societies, health care industry organizations, patient and consumer groups, and other professionals in the scientific community interested in advancing the infrastructure and methodology for epidemiologic understanding of medical devices and procedures.

II. Topics for Discussion at the Public Workshop

We intend to discuss a large number of issues at the public workshop, including but not limited to the following: (1) Status and updates from MDEpiNet Methodology and Infrastructure Centers; (2) proposed partnership structure and governance; (3) MDEpiNet as a framework for medical device postmarket surveillance and its relation to the Sentinel provision in the FDA Safety and Innovation Act (calling for the expansion of the postmarket risk identification and analysis system to include devices); and (4) action plan and prioritization of MDEpiNet partnership efforts for the upcoming year.

Dated: August 27, 2012.

Leslie Kux,

Assistant Commissioner for Policy.
