

anchor under option 1, or from the section transformer to the shuttle car anchor under option 2, and from the section transformer to the distribution box and to the shuttle cars' anchors under option 3.

(3) During each production shift, persons designated by the operator will visually examine the trailing cables to ensure that the cables are in safe operating condition and that the instantaneous settings of the specially calibrated circuit breaker settings do not have seals broken or removed. The weekly inspection examination record of this requirement will be kept by the operator and made available to an authorized representative of the Secretary and to the miners in the San Juan Mine 1.

(4) Trailing cables that are not in safe operating condition will be removed from service immediately and repaired or replaced.

(5) Each splice or repair in the trailing cables to the inline breaker box, distribution box and shuttle car will be made in workman-like manner and in accordance with the instructions of the manufacturer of the splice or repair kit. The outer jacket of each splice or repair will be vulcanized with flame-resistant material or made with material that has been accepted by MSHA as flame-resistant.

(6) If the mining methods or operating procedures cause or contribute to the damage of any trailing cable, the cable will be removed from service immediately, repaired or replaced, and additional precautions will be taken to ensure that in the future, the cable is protected and maintained in safe operating condition.

(7) Permanent warning labels will be installed and maintained on the cover(s) of each specially calibrated circuit breaker indicating that the cable can only be connected to a circuit breaker that is set to trip at its pre-determined instantaneous value. The labels will warn miners not to change or alter the sealed short-circuit settings.

(8) The petitioner's proposed alternative method will not be implemented until all miners who have been designated to examine the integrity of seals, verify the short-circuit settings, and examine trailing cables for defects and damage have received training.

(9) Within 60 days after the proposed decision and order becomes final, the petitioner will submit proposed revisions for its approved 30 CFR part 48 training plan to the District Manager for the area where the mine is located. The proposed revisions will specify task training for miners designated to verify that the short-circuit settings of the specially calibrated circuit interrupting device(s) that protect the affected trailing cables do not exceed the specified setting(s). The training will include:

(a) The hazards of setting short-circuit interrupting device(s) too high to adequately protect the trailing cables; and

(b) How to verify that the circuit interrupting device(s) protecting the trailing cable(s) are properly set and maintained.

The petitioner asserts that the proposed alternative method will at all times provide an equal or higher degree of safety as provided by the existing standard.
