National Agriculture Statistics Service

Title: Cotton Ginning Survey.

OMB Control Number: 0535–0220.

Summary of Collection: The National Agricultural Statistics Service's (NASS) primary function is to prepare and issue state and national estimates of crop and livestock production, disposition and prices as well as specialty agricultural and environmental statistics. The Cotton Ginning Survey provides statistics concerning cotton ginning for specific dates and geographic regions and aids in forecasting cotton production. The Cotton Ginning surveys obtain data mandated under U.S.C. Title 13, Section 42(a). General authority for these data collection activities is granted under U.S. Code Title 7, section 2204.

Need and Use of the Information: The majority of data are collected by telephone, mail, and fax. All active gins for a given crop season in all 17 cotton producing states are included in the survey. The ginning data collected provides (1) all segments of the cotton industry—buyers, brokers, crushers, shippers, textile firms, and researches with exact quantities of cotton available at specific geographic locations within the U.S. on a regular basis; (2) precise statistics, especially when at least 50 percent of the forecasted cotton production has been ginned in a state; and (3) final season ginning data is used to establish final production. If the information were collected less frequent, the cotton industry would be without county level quantities ginned that could seriously affect transportation costs and marketing strategies.

Description of Respondents: Business or other for-profit.

Number of Respondents: 575.

Frequency of Responses: Reporting: Monthly, Annually.

Total Burden Hours: 1,218.

Title: Community of Faith and Opportunity initiative.

OMB Number: New.

Expiration Date of Approval: Three years from approval date.

Type of Request: New information collection.

Abstract: Communities of Faith and Opportunity brings together local and community leadership to establish local prosperity councils. These councils are a bottom up, locally driven, partnership structure that assists in strengthening local capacity so that communities can develop investable projects to address their respective challenges and needs. Local prosperity councils provide additional information on their challenges, members of their council, as well as on going efforts on project implementation, to inform recommendations provided by USDA personnel. These recommendations are put together by USDA subject matter experts at headquarters and distributed to communities and USDA state office staff for implementation in the field. This combination of customer service, program delivery, and capacity building and technical assistance will ensure that a sustainable, bottom up, locally driven process is achieved that will move communities towards prosperity.

The Communities of Faith and Opportunity initiative seeks to better understand the challenges facing rural and underserved communities across the country, while also assisting them in building the local capacity needed to address the community challenges and needs. In order to accomplish this, communities are invited to participate in outreach summits, capacity building workshops, and if interested, to submit additional information to become a Community of Faith and Opportunity. The form captures information that will assist the USDA in providing robust, timely responses, customer service and program recommendations ensuring local needs are taken into account and setting up a community for long term success. The "Communities of Faith and Opportunity—Next Steps" form can be found at the following link: https://msudafvm.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_3CPN4ZzqzEGCHoF.

(4) Determine 3-5 local challenges or projects that you would like to see addressed by USDA

(5) Describe local assets by identifying and describing community resources that are being leveraged to accomplish community goals.

(6) Describe on going implementation efforts in the community; including specific activities that community stakeholders have undertaken to address the challenges independently.
