

Reporting Portal means that the user experience flow from question to question is driven by the individual respondent's responses. No respondent will be prompted to answer all the questions included in this package for review and approval.

This collection of information is distinct from CISA's efforts to implement the Cyber Incident Reporting for Critical Infrastructure Act of 2022 (CIRCIA) covered cyber incident and ransom payment reporting requirements. On April 4, 2024, CISA published the CIRCIA Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM). 89 FR 23644 (Apr. 4, 2024). Among other aspects of the proposed rulemaking, the CIRCIA NPRM described the proposed required content of CIRCIA reports. The public comment for that NPRM closed on July 3, 2024, and CISA is currently reviewing and considering comments as it develops the CIRCIA Final Rule. However, CISA clarifies that reporting under CIRCIA will not go into effect until the effective date of the CIRCIA Final Rule, which is anticipated to be late 2025 or early 2026.

As described above, the purpose of this ICR is to replace CISA's current Incident Reporting Form (approved under OMB control number 1670-037) which is used to collect incident reports under CISA's non-CIRCIA authorities (including FISMA) or other existing regulatory, statutory, and/or contractual requirements that provide for reporting of incidents to CISA. This collection is intended to replace the current Incident Reporting Form, prior to the effective date of the CIRCIA Final Rule, with a revised question set that will enrich the value and analytical capabilities on the data collected under these other incident reporting and information sharing authorities.

Because this effort is distinct from the CIRCIA Final Rule development, comments submitted in response to this Federal Register notice will not be considered comments on the CIRCIA NPRM or otherwise considered as part of the development of the CIRCIA Final Rule. Further, because CISA is still actively in the process of considering comments received in response to the CIRCIA NPRM, this ICR should not be viewed as indicating how CISA will resolve such comments as part the Final Rule.

This collection of information will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Based on an average of 26,000 respondents and the current hourly compensation rates, the burden and cost estimates are as follows: the burden hour estimate for an initial report is 52,000 hours and 146,250 hours for subsequent updates to the initial report. The annual burden cost is $8,870,611. The annual government cost is $4,351,165.

The Office of Management and Budget is particularly interested in comments which:

1. Evaluate whether the proposed collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency, including whether the information will have practical utility;
2. Evaluate the accuracy of the agency's estimate of the burden of the proposed collection of information, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used;
3. Enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and
4. Minimize the burden of the collection of information on those who are to respond, including through the use of appropriate automated, electronic, mechanical, or other technological collection techniques or other forms of information technology, e.g., permitting electronic submissions of responses.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The DOI is establishing the INTERIOR/DOI–22, Archaeological Resources Preservation System, system of records to implement the Archaeological Resources Protection Act of 1979 (ARPA), which requires DOI to issue implementing regulations to manage, protect, and preserve archaeological resources on Federal lands under DOI's jurisdiction. In compliance with ARPA, DOI promulgated regulations at 43 CFR part 7, Protection of Archaeological Resources, that provide uniform definitions, standards, and procedures for the protection of archaeological resources located on public lands and Indian lands of the United States. The regulations enable Federal land managers to protect archaeological resources through issuing permits for authorized excavation and/or removal of archaeological resources, through civil penalties for unauthorized excavation and/or removal of archaeological resources, promote the preservation of archaeological resource collections and data, and ensure the confidentiality of information about archaeological resources. Archaeological resources are any material remains of human life or activities which are at least 100 years of age, and which are of archaeological interest, as defined in 43 CFR part 7. The INTERIOR/DOI–22, Archaeological Resources Preservation System, system of records will help DOI in the oversight, management, tracking, and reporting of activities conducted under ARPA and 43 CFR part 7 and ensure the protection of archaeological resources on Federal lands.

The ARPA contains criminal and civil penalties for persons who commit prohibited acts or for violations involving archaeological resources under the ARPA and other law enforcement authorities. Any reported or suspected violation of the ARPA will be referred to the appropriate Federal, State, or local law enforcement organization for investigation and appropriate action. Records related to criminal investigations for prohibited acts or violations involving archaeological resources under the ARPA and 43 CFR part 7 will be maintained separately in other law enforcement systems of records as appropriate and will not be part of this system of records. However, records relating to criminal and civil penalties assessed under the ARPA and 43 CFR part 7 may be maintained in this system or other systems of records as necessary to implement the provisions of the ARPA and regulations at 43 CFR part 7.

II. Privacy Act

The Privacy Act of 1974, as amended, embodies fair information practice principles in a statutory framework governing the means by which Federal agencies collect, maintain, use, and disseminate individuals' records. The Privacy Act applies to records about individuals that are maintained in a "system of records." A "system of records" is a group of any records under the control of an agency for which information is retrieved by the name of an individual or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifying particular assigned to the individual. The Privacy Act defines an individual as a United States citizen or lawful permanent resident. Individuals may request access to their own records that are maintained in a system of records in the possession or under the control of DOI by complying with DOI Privacy Act regulations at 43 CFR part 2, subpart K, and following the procedures outlined in the Records Access, Contesting Record, and Notification Procedures sections of this notice.

The Privacy Act requires each Federal agency to publish in the Federal Register a description denoting the existence and character of each system of records that the agency maintains and the routine uses of each system. The system of records notice for the INTERIOR/DOI–22, Archaeological Resources Preservation System, is published in its entirety below. In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552a(r), DOI has provided a report of this system of records to the Office of Management and Budget and to Congress.

You should be aware your entire comment including your personally identifiable information, such as your address, phone number, email address, or any other personal information in your comment, may be made publicly available at any time. While you may request to withhold your personally identifiable information from public review, we cannot guarantee we will be able to do so.
