

subcontractor, and the test from the subcontractor must be appended to the prime contractor's report. Records maintained by a conformity assessment body during their normal course of business would not be considered in calculating Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA) burden, but we estimate that an average third party conformity assessment body engages in recordkeeping related to 12,000 tests annually pursuant to section 14 of the CPSA that may be considered PRA burden. We estimate that five percent of third party conformity assessment bodies, or 33.5 bodies (670 conformity assessment bodies  $\times$  5% = 33.5 subcontracting test bodies), will subcontract tests to other CPSC-accepted third party conformity assessment bodies. It is difficult to estimate how many tests will be subcontracted, but for current purposes, we estimate that of the third party conformity assessment bodies who subcontract, they will subcontract 25 percent of their tests. We estimate that it will take seven minutes, on average, to comply with the recordkeeping requirements related to subcontracted tests. If five percent of third party conformity assessment bodies subcontract 25 percent of tests annually, that is a total of 100,500 subcontract tests per year (33.5 subcontracting test bodies  $\times$  12,000 tests per body  $\times$  25% tests subcontracted = 100,500 subcontract tests). Therefore, at seven minutes per test, we estimate a total burden for third party disclosure to be 11,725 hours (or 703,500 minutes) per year to comply with the subcontracting recordkeeping requirement.

- Discontinue Burden.

If a third party conformity assessment body wishes to voluntarily discontinue its participation with the CPSC, an estimated 30 minutes is needed to create and submit the required documentation. See 16 CFR 1112.29. From FY 2020–24, 106 labs withdrew from the CPSC program. Accordingly, we estimate 20 labs will withdraw at an estimated total hourly burden of 10 hours (or 600 minutes) annually.

- Audit Burden.

The CPSC portion of an audit is required no less than once every two years. See 16 CFR 1112.35(b). Therefore, we estimated that 50 percent of third party conformity assessment bodies each year will go through an audit. This is based on FY20–24 data showing an average of 354 CPSC Audits per year. Based on the number of third party conformity assessment bodies that have already been accepted by the CPSC as of the end of May 2025 (686) and based upon our experience with the rate of new successful applications, we predict that the total number of third party conformity assessment bodies will be 700 by FY26. Half of those, 350, will be audited annually. Depending on the type of conformity assessment body (i.e., independent, firewalled, or governmental), and other factors not controlled by CPSC, audit burden would vary somewhat from body to body. We estimate that laboratories will spend approximately 15 minutes to resubmit their updated materials, including the CPSC Form 223, accredited scope listing and accreditation certificate for the CPSC Audits. Firewalled and governmental labs are also expected to submit an updated attestation, as well as an employee undue influence memorandum. In addition, for firewalled labs, a revised risk assessment of impartiality and undue influence is also included. Therefore, the total amount of time spent by conformity assessment bodies will be approximately 87.5 hours (350 bodies audited  $\times$  15 min. per audit = 5,250 minutes, or 87.5 hours).

Total Estimated Annual Burden:

Adding all the annual estimated burden hours results in a total of approximately 11,977 hours (87.2 hours application burden + 67 hours updating burden + 11,725 hours disclosure burden + 10 hours discontinue burden + 87.5 hours audit burden = 11,976.7 total annual burden hours).

To calculate the total cost of this PRA burden, we use the total compensation for all civilian workers, available from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics "Employer Costs for Employee Compensation," which is \$47.20 per hour worked as of December 2024. At \$47.20 per hour, the total cost of the PRA burden is approximately \$565,314 (\$47.20  $\times$  11,977 hours = \$565,314.40).
