

Diono further contends that “it is not unusual for any business to experience extended, unexpected and even undiagnosed downtime or impaired function of pages on its website, which it learns of only when reported, and promptly remedies.” Diono states that consumers are able to effectively navigate websites to find the intended web page, which it says, “may complicate the supplier’s ability to recognize such issues in the first place.” Moreover, Diono states, “If technical difficulties with a supplier’s registration website were consequential to motor vehicle safety, a motor vehicle equipment supplier would need to file a Part 573 report every time their website experienced a material service interruption or had a miscommunication with its web development team.”

Diono concludes by stating its belief that the subject noncompliances are inconsequential as they relate to motor vehicle safety and its petitions to be exempted from providing notification of the noncompliance, as required by 49 U.S.C. 30118, and a remedy for the noncompliance, as required by 49 U.S.C. 30120, should be granted.

NHTSA notes that the statutory provisions (49 U.S.C. 30118(d) and 30120(h)) that permit manufacturers to file petitions for a determination of inconsequentiality allow NHTSA to exempt manufacturers only from the duties found in sections 30118 and 30120, respectively, to notify owners, purchasers, and dealers of a defect or noncompliance and to remedy the defect or noncompliance. Therefore, any decision on these petitions only applies to the subject child restraints that Diono no longer controlled at the time it determined that the noncompliances existed. However, any decision on these petitions does not relieve child restraint distributors and dealers of the prohibitions on the sale, offer for sale, or introduction or delivery for introduction into interstate commerce of the noncompliant child restraint systems under their control after Diono notified them that the subject noncompliances existed.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Internal Revenue Service (IRS)

Title: U.S. Income Tax Return for Individual Taxpayers.

OMB Control Number: 1545-0074.

Form Number: Form 1040 and affiliated return forms.

Abstract: IRC sections 6011 & 6012 of the Internal Revenue Code require individuals to prepare and file income tax returns annually. These forms and related schedules are used by individuals to report their income subject to tax and compute their correct tax liability. This information collection request (ICR) covers the actual reporting burden associated with preparing and submitting the prescribed return forms, by individuals required to file Form 1040 and any of its' affiliated forms as explained in the attached table.

Current Actions: There have been changes in regulatory guidance related to various forms approved under this approval package during the past year. Additionally, there have been additions and removals of some forms included in this approval package. The number of estimated filers for FY22 has been increased based on data on the number of Tax Year 2021 Form 1040 filings and IRS models have been updated to account for macroeconomic inputs such as inflation. Overall, updated tax return data adjustments result in a slightly lower average time burden per response and a slightly higher out-of-pocket cost per response.

Affected Public: Individuals or households.

Estimated Number of Respondents: 172,600,000.

Total Estimated Time: 2.211 billion hours (2,211,000,000 hours).

Estimated Time per Respondent: 12.81 hours.
