

lavatories. For safety and stability, the guidelines also require each caster to have wheel locks and swivel locks. In its proposal, the Board sought comment on whether the guidelines should specify a minimum size for caster wheels so that they are large enough to readily traverse thresholds at lavatory entrances. Commenters recommended that the guidelines specify a performance requirement instead of a minimum caster size. However, the threshold at the lavatory entrance may significantly impact an assistant's ability to back the occupied OBW into the lavatory using the front assist handles and to pull it back out.

The Access Board requests information on the minimum caster wheel diameter that would ensure stability of the occupied OBW and allow the chair to easily traverse the lavatory doorway threshold when propelled using solely the front assist handles. The Board also requests information on the standard height of lavatory thresholds on single-aisle aircraft with 125 or more passenger seats.

Questions Relating to DOT's NPRM Regarding OBW Design

In a notice published elsewhere in this issue of the Federal Register, DOT seeks further information on all aspects of its NPRM relating to OBW design, including but not limited to:

- Whether the proposed OBW design elements adequately address accessibility concerns;
- The cost and feasibility of designing, manufacturing, and implementing compliant OBWs;
- The cost of developing and implementing procedures for training crew in unloading, using, and stowing the OBW;
- The dimensions of current OBW stowage spaces in single-aisle aircraft;
- Whether OBWs that meet DOT's proposed accessibility standards can be stowed in existing stowage spaces; and
- Aviation safety considerations relating to unloading, using, and stowing the OBW while in flight.

Invitation for the Submission of Additional Written Comments

The Access Board encourages stakeholders, including disability advocates, airlines, aircraft manufacturers, manufacturers of OBWs, flight attendant associations, public meeting participants, and others to submit written comments to the regulatory docket on its proposed OBW advisory guidelines, oral testimony or written materials discussed at the public hearing, or related matters, during the supplemental period for comment from December 16, 2021 to January 17, 2022.

Gretchen Jacobs,
General Counsel.
