

Maximizing the Value of Public Feedback

NRCS plans to use the answers provided by the public to inform the approach to determining the best delivery of the IRA funds and the overall administration of NRCS conservation programs. NRCS encourages public comment on these questions and requests any other information or data commenters believe are relevant to this document. The type of feedback that is most useful to NRCS will be comments that identify specific data, policies, procedures or processes, and include actionable information and data, or viable alternatives that meet IRA and other programmatic goals and requirements. To be most useful to NRCS, comments need to do more than simply state that the commenter feels strongly that NRCS should change processes. Instead, to be most helpful, comments should state in plain language what change NRCS should consider or how a suggested change will meet specific goals and requirements, or otherwise improve existing processes.

We highlight a few of those points here, noting that comments that will be most useful to NRCS are those that are guided by the following principles. Commenters should consider these principles as they respond to the questions in this document:

- Specify, to the extent possible, the NRCS program, regulation, or policy at issue and provide the Code of Federal Regulation (CFR) and NRCS Manual citation, where available or applicable. See <https://directives.sc.egov.usda.gov> for NRCS current policy manuals and handbooks.
- Explain, in the most specific and concise language, why an NRCS regulation, policy, form, or program process should be modified, streamlined, expanded, or removed, as well as specific suggestions about how NRCS can better achieve IRA objectives and reduce unnecessary burdens on producers and partners.
- Provide data to support how specific recommendations would increase benefits achievable by the IRA funding. Commenters may also address how NRCS can best quantify or otherwise obtain and consider accurate, objective information and data about outcomes achieved through IRA funding.

You may contact us by sending an email to: NRCS.IRA.Input@usda.gov if you have questions or concerns. Please specify the docket ID Docket ID: NRCS-2022-0015 in the subject line.

Review of Public Feedback

NRCS will use the public comments to improve our program delivery with the funds made available by IRA and to consider NRCS conservation program improvements more broadly.

This document is issued solely for information and program-planning purposes. Public comments provided in response to this document will not bind NRCS to any further actions, including publication of any formal response or agreement to initiate a recommended change. NRCS will consider the feedback and make changes or process improvements at our sole discretion.

Finally, comments submitted in response to this document will not be considered as petitions for rulemaking submitted as specified in the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553(e)).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Abstract

Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Health Resources Services Administration's Maternal and Child Health Bureau (HRSA MCHB), the National Survey of Children's Health Longitudinal Cohort (NSCH–LC) will produce unique data on the physical and emotional health of 3- to 23-year-olds in the United States with a focus on the COVID–19 pandemic. The NSCH–LC will collect information related to the health and well-being of children, young adults, and their families, including access to and use of health care, family interactions, parental health, school, and after-school experiences.

The goal of the NSCH–LC is to provide HRSA MCHB, other government agencies, and other data users with the necessary data to assess the effects of the COVID–19 pandemic on U.S. children, young adults, and their families, to illuminate key risk and protective factors for this cohort, and to identify gaps in health care and education during this period.

The data collection strategy for the NSCH–LC is informed by the data collection strategies of other similar surveys, such as the annual National Survey of Children's Health (NSCH). The data collection strategy for the NSCH–LC will consist of the following components:

- Sampling Frame—The base sample will consist of 60,000 households that responded to the annual NSCH in 2018 and 2019.
- Incentive Distribution—The NSCH–LC will provide a $5 pre-paid unconditional cash incentive to 100% of the total sampled addresses.
- Mailing Materials Strategy—Households will be assigned to a mailing strategy based on respondent behavior in the NSCH 2018/2019. All sampled addresses will receive an initial web invitation letter to complete the NSCH–LC followed by a pressure-sealed reminder postcard one week later. All non-responding households may receive up to one additional pressure-sealed reminder postcard and up to three additional nonresponse follow-up mailings. Households will receive a paper questionnaire based on their prior response preference on the NSCH 2018/2019. Households with a preference to respond with the paper instrument may receive an English questionnaire as early as the first follow-up mailing. Households with a preference to respond with the web instrument may receive an English questionnaire as early as the second follow-up mailing. For households that preferred to respond in Spanish, those households will receive a Spanish paper questionnaire in the initial mailing and with each nonresponse follow-up mailing. The NSCH–LC mailed correspondence will be addressed to the "Parent or Previous Caregiver of [child's/person's name]" or to the "Parent or Previous Caregiver". For those households that complete the survey, they may receive a "thank you" letter after the data has been publicly released thanking them for their response and sharing information about where to find the published datasets.
- Questionnaire Content—The content for the NSCH–LC has undergone
