I. Introduction

On May 26, 2023, the Postal Service filed a petition pursuant to 39 CFR 3050.11 requesting that the Commission initiate a rulemaking proceeding to consider changes to analytical principles relating to periodic reports.¹ The Petition identified the proposed analytical changes as Proposal Two. In Order No. 6659 the Commission conditionally approved Proposal Two but directed the Postal Service to propose further changes to analytical principles relating to periodic reports to address what the Commission found to be outstanding issues with respect to cost identification and attribution for interagency agreements (IAAs).²

II. Proposal Two, Order No. 6659, and Direction for Further Proceedings

Background. The Postal Service Reform Act of 2022³ modified and expanded the Postal Service’s ability to enter into IAAs to provide property and services to, or on behalf of, other government agencies. Specifically, 39 U.S.C. 3703 for the first time authorizes the Postal Service to enter into agreements with agencies of any state government, local government, or tribal government to provide property or nonpostal services to the public on behalf of such agencies for non-commercial purposes. At the same time, with respect to the Postal Service’s pre-existing authority under 39 U.S.C. 411 to provide property and services to other Federal agencies, the PSRA specifies that “[t]he Postal Service may establish a program to provide property and nonpostal services to other Government [i.e., federal] agencies within the meaning of section 411⁴, but only if such program provides a net contribution to the Postal Service, defined as reimbursement that covers at least 100 percent of the costs attributable . . .” 39 U.S.C. 3704.

Under the PSRA, the Postal Service must submit a report to the Commission after the close of each fiscal year that “analyzes costs, revenues, rates, and quality of service for each agreement or substantially similar set of agreements for the provision of property or nonpostal services under section 3703 or the program as a whole under section 3704, . . . using such methodologies as the Commission may prescribe, and in sufficient detail to demonstrate compliance with the requirements of [Chapter 37 of Title 39 of the United States Code].” 39 U.S.C. 3705(a). Upon receiving the Postal Service’s report and providing an opportunity for public comment, the Commission must make a written determination of compliance. 39 U.S.C. 3705(e).

In the Commission’s FY 2022 Annual Compliance Determination,⁵ the Commission directed the Postal Service to develop a proposed methodology (or methodologies) for calculating and attributing costs and revenue to IAAs authorized under 39 U.S.C. 3703 and 3704, and to initiate a rulemaking proceeding to establish such methodology (or methodologies) in accordance with 39 CFR 3050.11 by no later than May 31, 2023. Id. at 102. As directed, the Postal Service initiated the instant proceeding to propose a categorical approach to identifying costs and revenue for similar types, or groupings, of IAAs. Petition, Proposal Two at 2–3.

Order No. 6659 and direction for further proceedings. In Order No. 6659 the Commission conditionally approved Proposal Two, but directed the Postal Service to propose further changes to analytical principles relating to periodic reports to address specific issues that the Commission found remained unaddressed. First, the Commission directed the Postal Service to develop a proposed change in accepted analytical principles to develop a separate line item (or line items) in the Cost and Revenue Analysis (CRA) and related workbooks to enable the attribution of costs and related revenue to IAAs. Order No. 6659 at 16. Second, for agreements with government agencies that involve the provision of both postal services and property or nonpostal services, the Commission directed the Postal Service to develop a proposed change in analytical principles to separately account for the costs and revenue for those respective portions. Id. The Commission directed the Postal Service to file proposals related to these issues by September 29, 2023. Id. The Commission will then accept comments on the Postal Service’s proposals until October 16, 2023. Id. at 18.

⁴ Prior to the enactment of the PSRA, the Postal Service’s authority for these agreements was governed by 39 U.S.C. 411, which authorizes the Postal Service to “furnish property and services” to “Executive agencies within the meaning of [5 U.S.C. 105] and the Government Publishing Office. . . .” 39 U.S.C. 411. Section 105 of Title 5 of the United States Code specifies that an “‘Executive agency’ means an Executive department, a Government corporation, and an independent establishment” of the U.S. Government, as those terms are defined in 5 U.S.C. chapter 1. 5 U.S.C. 105.

I. Introduction

On August 28, 2023, the Postal Service filed a petition pursuant to 39 CFR 3050.11 requesting that the Commission initiate a rulemaking proceeding to consider changes to analytical principles relating to periodic reports.¹ The Petition identifies the proposed analytical changes filed in this docket as Proposal Four.

II. Proposal Four

Background. The Priority Mail Transportation Cost Model is used in financial projections of the expected cost coverage for negotiated service agreements (NSAs). Petition, Proposal Four at 1. The current model was introduced in Docket No. R2006–1 and is updated annually in the Annual Compliance Review (ACR), most recently in Docket No. ACR2022.² The Postal Service states that the model disaggregates the product-level transportation costs by zone and the resulting cost per cube and cost per pound by zone are applied to a customer's weight and zone profile in order to generate forward-looking cost projections for Priority Mail included in any NSA. Petition, Proposal Four at 1. These projections rely on prior fiscal year's costs with inflation factors applied to reflect the expected changes in costs due to broader economic conditions during the first full year of the NSA. Id. The Postal Service states that, however, these projections do not reflect expected changes in costs due to Postal Service's changing operational conditions during the first full year of the NSA. Id. Thus, the Postal Service proposes several changes to the Priority Mail Transportation Cost Model in Proposal Four to reflect these types of changes more accurately in Priority Mail transportation costs.

Proposal. The Postal Service proposes several changes to the Priority Mail Transportation Cost Model.

First, the Postal Service proposes a correction to the base year model to reflect that a portion of zone 6 pieces utilized distance-related surface transportation during fiscal year (FY) 2022. Id. at 2. The Postal Service states that the current model assumes that zone 6 pieces are transported entirely by air. Id. The Postal Service states that the correction is made by extending the existing methodology used for zones 1–5 up to zone 6. Id.

Second, once the correction to the base year model has been made, the Postal Service proposes the following sequence of actions to adjust the transportation costs by zone to reflect changes in the split between air and surface transportation occurring in the subsequent year due to Postal Service's network change. Id.

A. Collect the proportions of priority mail on air and surface transportation by zone from the Product Tracking and Reporting (PTR) system, for both the base year and the month most recently ended. Id.

B. Compare the base year's data with the most recent month's data and calculate the change in the percentage of Priority Mail transported on air vis-à-vis surface for each zone. Id. at 3.

1. If the absolute change from the base year percentage is less than five percentage points for a zone, then no adjustment to the base year costs is made. Id.

2. If the absolute change from the base year percentage is more than five percentage points for a zone, then the air and surface costs for that zone are adjusted by the following method:

a. The cube-related costs are divided into air-related, distance-related surface, and non-distance-related surface. Id. The Postal Service states that air-related costs include both the air costs and the surface costs associated with a connection to air. Id.

b. The weight-related costs are fully air-related. Id.

c. The non-distance-related surface costs are excluded from the adjustment and remain unchanged. Id. The Postal Service states that these are generally
