SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The children of migratory agricultural workers and migratory fishers present unique challenges for educators and our Nation's schools. Migratory workers travel from community to community in search of temporary and seasonal work. Given the nature of their employment, migratory workers and their families often settle in a single community for a short period of time. One consequence of this lifestyle and mobility is that the children of migratory workers often enter new schools without adequate, and in many cases any, documentation of their educational and health history.

At present, no national system exists to support the timely transfer of migratory students' educational and health information. For school-aged migratory children, this lack of educational and health information may cause delays in receiving needed services, lead to inappropriate classroom and course placements, complicate the accrual of high school course credits, and result in duplicated services, such as multiple assessments and immunizations.

It is widely believed that educators could better serve migratory children if basic information on prior schooling was more readily available. Most States currently have electronic data bases that include migrant student records. Yet, these data bases are not able to share information on a national basis, nor do they contain even all of the basic information that schools need to make the best decisions about the education of migratory children.

Background

Section 1308 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as amended by the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB), Public Law 107-110, substantially revises requirements in Title I, Part C for the Migrant Education Program (MEP) that govern the interstate transfer of migrant student education and health records. In particular, section 1308(b)(1) requires the Secretary to assist the States in developing effective methods for the electronic interstate transfer of migrant student records. Section 1308(b)(2) requires the Secretary, in consultation with the States, to ensure that migrant student record systems used by the States are linked so that States may electronically exchange health and educational information regarding all migratory students. This provision also requires the Secretary to-

1. Consult with States regarding (a) The minimum data elements that each State receiving MEP funds would have to collect and maintain, and (b) the requirements the Department would establish for immediate electronic access to this information, and then

2. Publish a notice in the Federal Register seeking public comment on these proposed data elements, and proposed requirements States would meet for immediate access to these data elements.

The remainder of this notice describes the Department's proposal for required data elements and procedures that States would implement for immediate electronic access of an interstate system of records transfer. As explained in the following discussion, the proposal was developed by a group of local and State practitioners with the support and encouragement of the Department's Office of Migrant Education (OME). While the proposal reflects our best thinking to date on what the requirements of this electronic data system would be, we want to receive the reactions of State and local educators. including MEP staff and administrators, as well as the general public, to this proposal, as well as specific recommendations for how it can be improved. Please refer to the "Invitation to Comment" section of this notice for instructions on how to provide your comments.

Finally we note that ESEA section 9531 expressly exempts section 1308(b) from the general prohibition that nothing in the ESEA "shall be construed to authorize the development of a nationwide database of personally identifiable information on individuals involved in studies or other collections of data" under the ESEA. In addition, the Department will not have access to the personally identifiable migrant student education and health records contained in the database that is the subject of ESEA section 1308(b) and this notice.

Development of This Proposal

In the spring of 1999, over a year before enactment of NCLB, the Department began consulting with States on the development of minimum data elements that should be included in any subsequently created, electronic migrant student records system. As a first step, it asked a group of State MEP program directors to develop a set of principles to guide the effort to improve access to migrant student records. The group recommended a set of nine guiding principles, which all State MEP directors adopted in June 1999.

The Department then asked a group of migrant education practitioners to develop and recommend a set of minimum data elements that, based on these principles, seemed essential to exchanging migratory students' education and health data. Focusing on interstate secondary migratory students, this working group first established the key users and uses of migrant student data. It identified guidance counselors, school registrars, and migrant education specialists as the primary users of these data, and concluded that they needed these data for purposes of "enrollment," "placement," and "academic counseling." In particular, these individuals would need the data to ensure:

(1) Timely and efficient enrollment of migratory students in a school in the community in which the children reside;

(2) Proper placement of migratory students into courses and programs at the appropriate grade level; and

(3) Provision of academic counseling that helps migratory students to complete courses and accrue credits that they need to graduate from high school.

Over the course of its meetings between April and September 2000, the working group then developed a preliminary set of minimum data elements needed to accomplish these three tasks. To the extent possible, the working group aligned these preliminary data elements and definitions with terms and definitions recommended in the "Student Data Handbook for Elementary, Secondary, and Early Childhood Education," which the Department's National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) had developed.

Finally, the working group proposed a set of deadlines for the submission and entry of the minimum data elements into State electronic migrant student records systems to ensure timely access to the data.

OME distributed and discussed the group's list of preliminary minimum data elements at a February 2002 meeting of MEP State directors. It also solicited questions and feedback on the proposed minimum data elements and timely access requirements during two sessions at the National Migrant Education Conference on April 8 and 9, 2002.

While the working group has focused on minimum data elements needed primarily to support the education of interstate secondary migratory children, we believe that these minimum data elements apply equally to the needs of all other migratory children, i.e., intrastate secondary migrant children, pre-school migratory children, elementary grade migratory students, and migratory youth who are not currently enrolled in school.

Proposed Minimum Data Elements for the Title I, Part C Migrant Education Program

The appendix to this notice contains the Department's proposal for the minimum data elements that all States would be required to collect and maintain for the purpose of electronically exchanging, among the States, educational and health information for all migratory students. The appendix reflects our review of the working group's proposal and our consultations to date with State MEP directors. Although data elements are listed once, a migrant student record would use a number of these elements on multiple occasions (e.g., "course title" will be used for each course in which a migratory student is enrolled).

Proposed Requirements for Immediate Electronic Access to the Minimum Data Elements

Following up on the working group's recommendation, the Department would require each State receiving Title I, Part C funds to maintain the minimum data elements in an electronic data base of student records. The Department will develop the technical specifications that these data bases and student data would need to meet in order to permit the exchange of migrant student records at a later date.

The Department proposes that, within four days of each migratory child's enrollment in a migrant education program or project, or enrollment in a school, whichever comes first, all States, would have to submit and enter into their electronic data base the data elements for that child that are used for "enrollment" and "placement" purposes. They could do so either on their own, or operating through local educational agencies or other local operating agencies. States also would be required to submit and enter data used for "academic counseling" purposes into their electronic data base within four days of a child's withdrawal from school or migrant education program or project, whichever comes first. The appendix provides information that explains which data elements would be needed for each purpose.

Enrollment and placement information must be available to schools who are receiving migratory children upon their arrival at the school door so that counselors, school registrars, and migrant education specialists can use the data to take appropriate actions and make informed decisions. Consequently, we believe that timelines for data submission and data entry like those we have proposed are absolutely critical to the successful exchange of migrant students records.

Invitation To Comment

The Secretary invites interested members of the public to comment on this proposal for: (1) The minimum data elements to be collected and maintained in the migrant student records systems used by the States, and (2) the requirements for immediate electronic access to such information.

We are interested in receiving public comment on, and reaction to, all aspects of these proposed requirements. However, in formulating your comments, we ask that you pay particular attention to the following questions:

- 1. Will the collection and timely sharing of the minimum data elements significantly improve enrollment, placement, and graduation support services to students? If so, how?
- 2. Is the set of recommended minimum data elements the "right" set of data elements for the three purposes (i.e., enrollment, placement, and graduation support)? Are any of the proposed elements unnecessary? Should any additional elements be added?
- 3. What will be the burden of collecting the data? Will the value of sharing the data outweigh the burden of data collection?

- 4. What are your suggestions for ensuring the use of the data elements by counselors and migrant specialists? What forces or factors will work to support the use of the minimum data elements? What forces or factors will hinder their use?
- 5. Are there ways to create linkages of migrant student record data systems that will ensure that the right information on an individual migratory student is available to school and LEA staff without assigning to each migratory student a unique migrant student record number?
- 6. What are your suggestions for increasing State compliance with requirements for collecting and maintaining up-to-date data elements? What are the forces and factors that will work to support the collection and maintenance of the data? What are the forces and factors that will hinder the collection and maintenance of the data?

After we have reviewed the comments received in response to this notice, we will decide what, if any, further discussion with State and local practitioners is necessary to improve these data system requirements. Before the Department issues any final requirements that govern the collection and maintenance of these data elements, the Department will (1) provide an opportunity for further public comment, and (2) advise all States of the technical specifications for the collection and maintenance of student data that their migrant student record systems will need to meet.

During and after the comment period, you may inspect all public comments about these proposed regulations in room 3E333, 400 Maryland Avenue, SW., Washington, DC 20202–6400 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Eastern time, Monday through Friday of each week except Federal holidays.

Appendix A: Minimum Data Elements

The following table presents the proposed requirements for the minimum data elements that a State shall collect and maintain for the purpose of electronically exchanging, among the States, educational and health information for all migratory students.

The table lists the data elements by: (1) a data element identification number, (2) a code that identifies the primary user function(s) for which the data element is required, (3) the name of the data element, and (4) a data element definition.

In regard to the primary user functions for which a data element is required, the letter "E" indicates that the data element is required to help guidance counselors, school registrars, or migrant education specialists with the timely and efficient enrollment of migratory students in a school in the community in which the children currently reside. The letter "P" indicates that the data element is required to help guidance counselors or migrant education specialists with the proper placement of migratory students into courses and/or programs at the appropriate grade level. The letter "G" indicates that the data element is required to help guidance counselors or migrant education specialists with the provision of academic counseling that supports the completion of courses and the accrual of credits needed for graduation.

In addition, the data elements are grouped into one of five categories of data: (1) data elements that describe a student, (2) data elements that describe a school or project, (3) data elements that describe the student's graduation plan, (4) data elements that describe a student's course history, and (5) data elements that describe a student's assessment information.

Finally, although the data elements are listed once, a number of the data elements will be used for multiple entries in a migrant student record (e.g., "course title" will be used for each course in which a migratory student is enrolled).

[Docket No. CP00-166-002]

Williams Gas Pipelines Central, Inc.; Notice of Application

May 21, 2002.

On May 9, 2002, Williams Gas Pipelines Central, Inc. (Williams), 3800 Frederica Street, Owensboro, Kentucky 42301, filed an application pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act (NGA), as amended, and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's (the Commission) Rules and Regulations thereunder. Williams requests authorization to further amend the certificate of public convenience and necessity issued on December 30, 1963, authorizing the Webb Storage Field in Grant County, Oklahoma, all as more fully set forth in the application to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection. Further, Williams requests expedited approval of the amendment so work can commence by July 15, 2002. This filing may be viewed on the Web at http://www.ferc.gov using the "RIMS" link, select "Docket #" and follow the instructions (call 202-208-2222 for assistance).

Williams requests authority to: (1) Place into service as part of its Webb Storage Field facilities, an existing gathering system which it has acquired in acquisition of additional buffer zone; and, (2) install a 60-Horsepower gas compressor, one measurement station, and certain related pipeline in the Webb Storage Field, in place of the facilities originally proposed by Williams and approved in the February 8, 2001

Commission Order Amending Certificate, 94 FERC ¶ 61,120. The cost of these modifications is estimated to be approximately $ 553,000.

Questions regarding the application may be directed to David N. Roberts, Manager of Tariffs and Regulatory Analysis, P.O. Box 20008, Owensboro, Kentucky 42304, or call (270) 688–6712.

There are two ways to become involved in the Commission's review of this project. First, any person wishing to obtain legal status by becoming a party to the proceedings for this project should, on or before June 6, 2002, file with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 888 First Street, NE, Washington, DC 20426, a motion to intervene in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 385.214 or 385.211) and the Regulations under the NGA (18 CFR 157.10). A person obtaining party status will be placed on the service list maintained by the Secretary of the Commission and will receive copies of all documents filed by the applicant and by all other parties. A party must submit 14 copies of filings made with the Commission and must mail a copy to the applicant and to every other party in the proceeding. Only parties to the proceeding can ask for court review of Commission orders in the proceeding.

However, a person does not have to intervene in order to have comments considered. The second way to participate is by filing with the Secretary of the Commission, as soon as possible, an original and two copies of comments in support of or in opposition to this project. The Commission will consider these comments in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but the filing of a comment alone will not serve to make the filer a party to the proceeding. The Commission's rules require that persons filing comments in opposition to the project provide copies of their protests only to the party or parties directly involved in the protest.

Persons who wish to comment only on the environmental review of this project should submit an original and two copies of their comments to the Secretary of the Commission. Environmental commenters will be placed on the Commission's environmental mailing list, will receive copies of the environmental documents, and will be notified of meetings associated with the Commission's environmental review process. Environmental commenters will not be required to serve copies of filed documents on all other parties. However, the nonparty commenters will not receive copies of all documents filed by other parties or issued by the Commission (except for the mailing of environmental documents issued by the Commission) and will not have the right to seek court review of the Commission's final order.

If the Commission decides to set the application for a formal hearing before an Administrative Law Judge, the Commission will issue another notice describing that process. At the end of the Commission's review process, a final Commission order approving or denying a certificate will be issued.

Comments, protests and interventions may be filed electronically via the Internet in lieu of paper. See, 18 CFR 385.2001(a)(1)(iii) and the instructions on the Commission's Web site under the "e-Filing" link.
