SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Abstract

The International Trade Administration's (ITA) is mandated by Congress to broaden and deepen the U.S. exporter base and to attract inward foreign direct investment. It accomplishes this by providing counseling, programs and services to help U.S. organizations export and conduct business in overseas markets. This information collection package enables ITA to provide appropriate global trade services to U.S. businesses and international buyers.

ITA offers a variety of services to enable clients to begin exporting and global trade or to expand existing export and global trade efforts. Clients may learn about available services from business related entities such as the National Association of Manufacturers, Federal Express, State Economic Development offices, the internet or word of mouth. ITA provides a standard set of services to assist clients with identifying potential overseas partners, establishing meeting programs with appropriate overseas business contacts and providing due diligence reports on potential overseas business partners. ITA also provides other global trade related services considered to be of a "customized nature" because they do not fit into the standard set of services but are driven by unique business needs of individual clients.

The dissemination of international market information and potential business opportunities for U.S. companies interested and actively exporting and conducting business globally are critical components of the ITA's global trade assistance programs and services. U.S. companies are able to conveniently access and indicate their interest in services by completing the appropriate forms via multiple ways, including via a website (e.g. trade.gov), web-based survey or form links, or paper-based forms.

ITA works closely with clients to educate them about the exporting/importing process and to help prepare them for global trading opportunities. When a client is ready to begin the process the field staff provide counseling to assist in the development of a global trade strategy. ITA provides fee-based, global trade related services designed to help a client's business presence internationally. The type of service that is offered to a client depends upon a client's business goals and where they are in the export/import process. Some clients are at the beginning of the process and require assistance with identifying potential distributors, whereas other clients may be ready to sign a contract with a potential distributor and require due diligence assistance.

Before ITA can provide global trade and export-related services to clients, such as assistance with identifying potential partners or providing due diligence, specific information is required to determine the client's business objectives and needs. For example, before ITA can provide a service to identify potential business partners, information is needed regarding if the client would like a potential partner to have specific technical qualifications, coverage in a specific market, English or foreign language ability or warehousing requirements. This information collection is designed to elicit such data so that appropriate services can be proposed and conducted to most effectively meet the client's global trading goals. Without these forms ITA is unable to provide services when requested by clients.

The forms ask U.S. businesses standard questions about their company details, demographic information, export/import experience, information about the products or services they wish to export/import and their goals. A few questions are tailored to a specific program type and will vary slightly with each program. ITA staff use this information to gain an understanding of clients' needs and objectives so that they can provide appropriate and effective assistance tailored to each U.S. business' particular global trade requirements.
