Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement; Definitions of Component and Domestic Manufacture (DFARS Case 2005-D010)

AGENCY: Defense Acquisition Regulations System, Department of Defense (DoD).

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: DoD is issuing this final rule to amend the Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement (DFARS) to clarify the definitions of “component” and “domestic manufacture” as they relate to policy on foreign acquisition.

DATES: Effective date: December 24, 2009.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:*A. Background

DoD published a proposed rule at 71 FR 18695 on April 12, 2006. We did not receive any public comments. Therefore, DoD has issued a final rule with only a minor editorial correction and an update of the baseline.

This final rule amends DFARS Part 225 and associated provisions and clauses to clarify the distinction between foreign acquisition policies that apply only to top-level components of end products and those that apply to both top-level and lower-tier components of end products. As used in this background discussion, “top-level components” are those components that are incorporated directly into the end product; and “lower-tier components” are components that are incorporated into a component of the end product.

The general definition of “component” in FAR 2.101 is “any item supplied to the Government as part of an end item or of another component.” Therefore, for general use, the term includes both top-level components and lower-tier components. For purposes of determining whether a product is a domestic end product under the Buy American Act or the Balance of Payments Program, the term “component” is defined in FAR 25.003 to include only “an article, material, or supply incorporated directly into an end product or construction material” (i.e., only top-level components). This definition would also be applicable to any other situation in which evaluation of the end product is based on the value of the components, similar to that under the Buy American Act (e.g., to determine a qualifying country end product or whether anchor chain is a domestic end product).

In broadly applying these concepts to DFARS Part 225, “component” has been defined to apply only to top-level components, except in Subpart 225.70, where the term “component” includes components at all tiers. However, there are some requirements of Part 225 other than those in 225.70 that are not based on or are not similar to the Buy American Act, and there are some requirements in 225.70 that should be treated as similar to the Buy American Act.

Therefore, the definitions of “component” included in the final rule reflect the correct applicability of foreign acquisition policies as follows:

- 225.900-70 and 252.225-7013, Duty-Free Entry. Duty-free entry is not related to evaluation of domestic products under the Buy American Act and should apply to qualifying country components at any tier.
- 252.225-7019, Restriction on Anchor and Mooring Chain—The requirement that the cost of components manufactured in the United States exceed 50 percent of the total cost of components is similar to the Buy American Act component test, in which only top-level components are considered. Therefore, the definition restricting application to top-level components should apply.

- 252.225-7025, Restriction on Acquisition of Forgings—The requirement to acquire forging items that are of domestic manufacture is not related to evaluation of domestic products under the Buy American Act and should apply to components at any tier.

In addition, the rule eliminates references to the DoD Industrial Preparedness Production Planning Program, at 225.7005-1 and in the definition of “domestic manufacture” at 252.225-7025, since DoD no longer has an Industrial Preparedness Production Planning Program.

This rule was subject to Office of Management and Budget review under Executive Order 12866, dated September 30, 1993.

B. Regulatory Flexibility Act

DoD certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities within the meaning of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601, et seq., because the rule updates and clarifies DFARS terminology, but makes no significant change to DoD acquisition policy. DoD did not receive any comments on regulatory flexibility and impact of the rule on small business entities.

C. Paperwork Reduction Act

The Paperwork Reduction Act does not apply, because the rule does not impose any information collection requirements that require the approval of the Office of Management and Budget under 44 U.S.C. 3501, et seq.
