

Division of Medicine and Dentistry, Health Resources and Services Administration, and remarks have been invited from the Bureau of Health Professions and the Agency. A plenary session will follow in which speakers will address the Advisory Committee on the topic of health-outcomes disparities in at-risk populations and the interface of Title VII, section 747 training programs with community groups to enhance care for vulnerable populations. In plenary session and in small workgroups, the Advisory Committee will make plans for the report. There also will be annual elections for a new chair and two vice chairs. An opportunity will be provided for public comment.

On Friday, September 30, the Advisory Committee will open its meeting with an address on the topic of a theoretical framework for understanding vulnerability as it relates to individual patients and patient populations. The Advisory Committee will continue work on the sixth report and select members to serve on a Writing Group whose members will guide the report preparation process. An opportunity will be provided for public comment.
