I. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

The Exchange proposes to amend sections 140 and 141 of the NYSE American Company Guide ("Company Guide") to waive initial listing fees and the prorated annual fee for the first partial year of listing for any issuer that is not itself listed on a national securities exchange immediately prior to its initial listing on the Exchange but is listing a class of equity securities upon closing of its acquisition of a special purpose acquisition company which had a class of equity securities listed on the Exchange or another national securities exchange prior to the closing of such acquisition. The proposed change is available on the Exchange's website at www.nyse.com, at the principal office of the Exchange, and at the Commission's Public Reference Room.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the self-regulatory organization included statements concerning the purpose of, and basis for, the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of those statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant parts of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and the Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

The Exchange proposes to amend sections 140 and 141 of the Company Guide to waive initial listing fees and the prorated annual fee for the first partial year of listing for any issuer that is not itself listed on a national securities exchange immediately prior to its initial listing on the Exchange but is listing a class of equity securities upon closing of its acquisition of a special purpose acquisition company ("SPAC") which had a class of equity securities listed on the Exchange or another national securities exchange prior to the closing of such acquisition.

When a SPAC consummates its business combination, the SPAC is typically the legal acquirer in the transaction and, provided it meets the initial listing standards applied in connection with a business combination by a listed SPAC, it can remain listed on the Exchange. Section 142(g) of the Company Guide provides that a company listed pursuant to section 119 (“Listing of Companies Whose Business Plan is to Complete One or More Acquisitions”) which remains listed on NYSE American upon consummation of its business combination will not be subject to any fees in relation to the issuance of any additional shares in connection with (1) the consummation of the business combination or (2) a transaction which is occurring at the same time as the business combination with a closing contractually contingent on the consummation of the business combination. The NYSE American-listed SPAC has already been billed its annual fees for that calendar year and will not incur any prorated annual fees for the issuance of additional shares.⁴ Similar to the treatment for fee purposes of a SPAC that is listed on the Exchange and chooses to remain listed after its business combination, a SPAC that is listed on another national securities exchange and that chooses to transfer to NYSE American at the time of its business combination is not subject to any initial listing fees or annual fees for the first part year of listing on NYSE American. This is because section 140 of the Company Guide provides that any company listing any class of equity securities upon transfer from another market will not be subject to any initial listing fees in connection with such listing. Similarly, section 141 of the Company Guide provides that issuers transferring the listing of their primary class of common shares from another national securities exchange are not required to pay annual fees with respect to that primary class of common shares or any other class of securities transferred in conjunction therewith for the remainder of the calendar year in which the transfer occurs.

By contrast to the above-described fee waivers, if a company that is not listed on the Exchange or another national securities exchange merges with a NYSE American-listed SPAC or a SPAC listed on another national securities exchange and the non-listed company is the acquirer in the transaction, the non-listed company is treated as a new listing and must pay initial listing fees and prorated annual fees in relation to all shares issued and outstanding at the time of initial listing.

To address this disparity between a NYSE American-listed SPAC or a SPAC listed on another national securities exchange that is the acquirer in a business combination and a business combination involving a non-listed issuer where such issuer is the acquirer, the Exchange proposes to amend section 140 of the Company Guide. Specifically, as amended, section 140 would waive initial listing fees in cases where a company that is not itself listed on a national securities exchange immediately prior to its initial listing on the Exchange is listing a class of equity securities upon closing of its acquisition of a SPAC which had a class of equity securities listed on the Exchange or another national securities exchange prior to the closing of such acquisition. Similarly, the Exchange proposes to amend section 141 of the Company Guide to waive with respect to any such company the requirement to pay annual fees with respect to that primary class of common shares or any other class of securities listed in conjunction therewith for the remainder of the calendar year in which the listing occurs. The Exchange believes the similar treatment of a NYSE American-listed SPAC or a SPAC listed on another national securities exchange that is the acquirer in a business combination and a business combination involving a non-listed issuer where such issuer is the acquirer is reasonable because the ultimate listed company is the same. The Exchange believes that the differential treatment accorded to business combinations where the NYSE American listed SPAC or SPAC listed on another national securities exchange is legally acquired by an unlisted company is anomalous. The decision whether to structure a business combination with the SPAC as the legal acquirer rather than the other party does not result in the listing of a substantively different entity. Accordingly, the Exchange believes there is no basis for charging fees purely on the basis of the structure of the business combination chosen by the parties.

The Exchange notes that, in the case of a listing of a non-listed company upon acquisition of a SPAC that was listed on another national securities exchange, the SPAC would have paid initial listing fees and annual fees for that calendar year to the other national securities exchange. The Exchange believes the proposed waivers would therefore enable NYSE American to better compete for the listing of non-listed companies acquiring SPACs listed on other national securities exchanges than it can currently, as the listing of the combined company would not result in any fees under the rules of either of the other national securities exchanges that list equity securities,⁵ thereby creating a disincentive to listing on NYSE American. The Exchange believes that by addressing these competitive concerns, the proposal is not unfairly discriminatory.

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change would not affect the Exchange’s commitment of resources to its regulatory oversight of the listing process or its regulatory programs.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with section 6(b) of the Act,⁶ in general, and furthers the objectives of section 6(b)(4)⁷ of the Act, in particular, in that it is designed to provide for the equitable allocation of reasonable dues, fees, and other charges. The Exchange also believes that the proposed rule change is consistent with section 6(b)(5) of the Act,⁸ in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to foster cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in regulating, clearing, settling, processing information with respect to, and facilitating transactions in securities, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest and is not designed to permit unfair discrimination between customers, issuers, brokers, or dealers.

The Proposed Change Is Reasonable

The Exchange operates in a highly competitive marketplace for the listing of equity securities. The Commission has repeatedly expressed its preference for competition over regulatory intervention in determining prices, products, and services in the securities markets.

The Exchange believes that the ever-shifting market share among the exchanges with respect to new listings and the transfer of existing listings between competitor exchanges demonstrates that issuers can choose different listing markets in response to fee changes. Accordingly, competitive forces constrain exchange listing fees. Stated otherwise, changes to exchange listing fees can have a direct effect on the ability of an exchange to compete for new listings and retain existing listings.

Given this competitive environment, the Exchange believes that the proposed fee waivers are reasonable because the cost of paying initial listing fees and the first part year of annual fees to the NYSE American acts as a disincentive to listing on the Exchange.

The Proposal Is an Equitable Allocation of Fees

The Exchange believes that the proposed fee waivers are equitable because they avoid an anomalous fee outcome arising from the manner in which a SPAC business combination has been structured.

The Proposal Is Not Unfairly Discriminatory

The Exchange believes that the proposal is not unfairly discriminatory, because the proposed waivers are solely intended to avoid the impact on a limited group of issuers of an anomalous fee outcome arising from the manner in which a SPAC business combination has been structured. Section 142 of the Company Guide includes a specific waiver of all listing fees for the issuance of shares by a NYSE American-listed SPAC which remains listed upon consummation of its business combination in relation to the issuance of any additional shares in connection with (1) the consummation of the business combination or (2) a transaction which is occurring at the same time as the business combination with a closing contractually contingent on the consummation of the business combination. The NYSE American-listed SPAC has already been billed its annual fees for that calendar year and will not incur any prorated fees for the issuance of additional shares.⁹ By contrast, if a company that is not listed on the Exchange or another national securities exchange merges with a NYSE American-listed SPAC and the non-listed company is the acquirer in the transaction, the non-listed company is treated as a new listing and must pay initial listing fees and prorated annual fees in relation to all shares issued and outstanding at the time of initial listing.

A SPAC is a shell company with no business operations. Consequently, the parties to a business combination between a SPAC and an operating company have significant flexibility in how they choose to structure the business combination, including in determining which entity will be the legal acquirer. The Exchange is proposing to amend its fee structure to reflect the incidental nature of the resulting SPAC business combination and to avoid treating companies undergoing similar business combinations disparately. By contrast to a SPAC business combination, there are typically more significant limitations on the ability of the parties to a merger between two operating companies to make decisions about which entity will be the acquirer, including, for example, the desire to maintain the acquirer's SEC registration and concerns about how to present the combined entity to the market. As such, it is much more likely that the listing fee implications of how the transaction is structured would be a major consideration for the parties to a SPAC business combination than would be the case in a merger between two operating companies. As the implications of the proposed fee waivers for decisions relating to the transaction structures utilized by unlisted companies listing in connection with the acquisition of a SPAC are typically greater than for other companies listing in conjunction with merger transactions, the proposed waivers are not unfairly discriminatory.

The Exchange notes that, in the case of a listing of a non-listed company upon acquisition of a SPAC that was listed on another national securities exchange, the SPAC would have paid initial listing fees and annual fees for that calendar year to the other national securities exchange. The Exchange believes the proposed waivers would therefore enable NYSE American to better compete for the listing of non-listed companies acquiring SPACs listed on other national securities exchanges than it can currently, as the listing of the combined company would not result in any fees under the rules of either of the other national securities exchanges that list equity securities,¹⁰ thereby creating a disincentive to listing on NYSE American. The Exchange believes that by addressing these competitive concerns, the proposal is not unfairly discriminatory.

Finally, the Exchange believes that it is subject to significant competitive forces, as described below in the Exchange's statement regarding the burden on competition.

For the foregoing reasons, the Exchange believes that the proposal is consistent with the Act.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

Intramarket Competition

The proposed waiver will be available to all similarly situated issuers on the same basis. The proposed waiver will address an anomalous discrepancy in fee treatment between business combinations of SPACs listed on the Exchange and companies that are not listed on a national securities exchange based solely on which entity is the legal survivor in the transaction. The Exchange does not believe that the proposed waivers will have any meaningful effect on the competition among issuers listed on the Exchange.

Intermarket Competition

The Exchange operates in a highly competitive market in which issuers can readily choose to list new securities on other exchanges and transfer listings to other exchanges if they deem fee levels at those other venues to be more favorable. Because competitors are free to modify their own fees in response, and because issuers may change their listing venue, the Exchange does not believe its proposed fee change can impose any burden on intermarket competition.

The Exchange notes that, in the case of a listing of a non-listed company upon acquisition of a SPAC that was listed on another national securities exchange, the SPAC would have paid initial listing fees and annual fees for that calendar year to the other national securities exchange. The Exchange believes the proposed waivers would therefore enable NYSE American to better compete for the listing of non-listed companies acquiring SPACs listed on other national securities exchanges than it can currently, as the listing of the combined company would not result in any fees under the rules of either of the other national securities exchanges that list equity securities, thereby creating a disincentive to listing on NYSE American.
