Title: Eating Disorders in Veterans: Prevalence, Comorbidity, Risk, and Healthcare Use.

OMB Control Number: 2900—NEW.

Type of Review: New collection.

Abstract: Eating disorders (EDs), including anorexia nervosa, bulimia nervosa, and binge eating disorder, are deadly conditions that can be difficult to detect and treat. EDs are typically not screened for or treated within the VA healthcare system, possibly because many people believe that since Veterans are mostly male, they are not affected by these disorders. The Department of Defense recently put out a call for grants to investigate EDs in military service members and Veterans, and our proposal is currently under review. Our proposal also aligns with VA Health Services Research & Development funding Priority F (Women's Health) for Investigator-Initiated Research, which emphasizes investigating the unique needs of female Veterans. EDs are an issue for male and female Veterans; however, they disproportionately impact women. Third, our aims address the recommendations of the 2012 Women Veterans Task Force to resolve gaps in serving women Veterans. Further, Legal authority for this data collection is found under 38 U.S.C., Part I, Chapter 5, Section 527 that authorizes the collection of data that will allow measurement and evaluation of the Department of Veterans Affairs Programs, the goal of which is improved health care for Veterans.

Affected Public: Individuals and households.

Estimated Annual Burden:

Risk and Protective Factors for Eating Disorders and Healthcare Use Survey—1,750 hours.

Eating Disorder Examination—480 hours.

Estimated Average Burden per Respondent:

Risk and Protective Factors for Eating Disorders and Healthcare Use Survey—50 minutes.

Frequency of Response: Annually.

Estimated Number of Respondents:

Risk and Protective Factors for Eating Disorders and Healthcare Use Survey—2,100.

Eating Disorder Examination—240.
