

Proposed alternate test procedure:

- Use a correction factor of 0.55 to calculate the AWEF to adjust for average usage.

- One load used to calculate AWEF.

- Evaporator air entering temperature dry bulb of 55 °F for split cooling systems.

- Evaporator air entering relative humidity 55% for split systems.

- Setting airflow and static pressure for systems with ducted evaporator. Fan speed would be in accordance with manufacturers specifications. The external static pressure for testing would be set to ½ of the rated maximum external static with a tolerance of -0/+0.05 in H₂O.

- For unit cooler style units for wine use above 45 degree F the same SST of 38 deg F coil temperature, entering air temperature of 55 deg F and relative humidity of 55% will be used. Duty cycle and operating characteristics are the same as the other wine units.

Success of the application for interim waiver and waiver:

It will ensure that manufacturers of wine cellar cooling systems can continue to participate in the market.

What economic hardship and/or competitive disadvantage are likely to absent a favorable determination on the application for interim waiver.

Economic hardship will be loss of sales due to not meeting the DOE energy conservation standards set forth and 10 CFR 431.306 if the existing products were altered in order to test for current requirements set forth in 10 CFR 431.204 and AHRI 1250-2020, would add significant costs and increase energy consumption.

Conclusion:

LRC Coil requests an interim waiver and waiver from DOE's current test method for the measurement of energy consumption of walk-in wine cellar split cooling systems.

Respectfully submitted,

Mike Williams P.E.,
LRC Coil Company, 3861 E 42nd Place,
Yuma, AZ 85365.
