USPS employees perform a variety of tasks, requiring a tremendous amount of both institutional and external knowledge. As is the nature of most organizations, this information can often be siloed, difficult to reach, or highly specific. To alleviate these issues and maximize efficiency, USPS will employ a large language model-based chat assistant for USPS employees. This assistant will improve information access, retention, and recollection among its workforce by providing an engaging and responsive 24-hour access-medium able to locate information quickly and with high levels of specificity. This access will save countless hours of searching disparate sources for critical pieces of information, and will also allow the organization as a whole to see if there are any particular trends that require action, attention, or recognition at a higher level. Deployment of this assistant will be highly constrained within the USPS Information Technology Infrastructure, with new data sources subject to enhanced scrutiny prior to integration with the chat assistant; this will ensure that
