

(3) a 0.36-mile, 35-foot-wide, concrete-lined tailrace tunnel; (4) five 0.03-mile, 19-foot-wide steel penstocks; (5) a 1.71-mile, 29-foot-wide concrete-lined horizontal tunnel; and (6) a 0.15-mile, 29-foot-wide concrete-lined vertical shaft.

The Lake Range Reservoir alternative consists of: (1) a new upper reservoir with a surface area of 160 acres and a storage volume of 26,020 acre-feet at a maximum water-surface elevation of 6,180 MSL; (2) a 0.3-mile, 31-foot-wide concrete-lined headrace tunnel; (3) a 0.43-mile, 34-foot-wide concrete-lined tailrace tunnel; (4) five 0.04-mile, 18-foot-wide steel penstocks; (5) a 2.04-mile, 29-foot-wide concrete-lined horizontal tunnel; and (6) a 0.15-mile, 29-foot-wide concrete-lined vertical shaft.

Powerhouse location would depend on the selected upper reservoir alternative. The powerhouse would be between 200 to 300 feet below ground level and constructed with steel and concrete. The structure would be approximately 500-feet-long, 125-feet-wide, and 150-feet-high, containing five pump-turbine motor sets rated at 400 megawatts (MW) each. Adjacent to the powerhouse, the transformers chamber would be constructed and reinforced with shotcrete. The chamber would be approximately 165-feet-long, 60-feet-wide, and 50-feet-high.

The Pyramid Lake Pumped Storage Power Plant would interconnect to the Sylmar transmission line using a new 500 kilovolt (kV) transmission corridor about 16.5 miles long but length would vary depending on the selected upper reservoir alternative. The interconnection between the Pyramid Lake Pumped Storage Project to the Pacific DC Intertie will require a new converter station. From there, the power would be transmitted to a Rebuilt Sylmar Converter Station West. Annual energy production is projected to be approximately 6,900,000 megawatt-hours.

Additionally, the project will be interconnected with proposed photovoltaic solar farms, through a new 500 kV transmission line to the new powerhouse. Two alternatives for the solar farms are proposed. The first alternative is a 14,000-acre, 2,000-MW solar farm on the north slope of Pyramid Lake. The second alternative includes two separate solar farms; a 10,000-acre, 1,428-MW facility on the north slope of Pyramid Lake and a 4,000-acre, 572-MW facility on the southeast tip of the lake.

[Project No. 1061-103]

Pacific Gas and Electric Company; Notice of Availability of Environmental Assessment

In accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission's (Commission) regulations, 18 CFR part 380, the Office of Energy Projects has reviewed the application for a new license to continue to operate and maintain the Phoenix Hydroelectric Project. The project is located on the South Fork Stanislaus River in Tuolumne County, California. Commission staff has prepared an Environmental Assessment (EA) for the project. The project would occupy 26.99 acres of Federal land administered by the U.S. Forest Service and 0.59 acre of Federal land administered by the Bureau of Land Management.

The EA contains the staff's analysis of the potential environmental impacts of the project and concludes that licensing the project, with appropriate environmental protective measures, would not constitute a major Federal action that would significantly affect the quality of the human environment.

The Commission provides all interested persons with an opportunity to view and/or print the EA via the internet through the Commission's Home Page (<http://www.ferc.gov/>), using the "eLibrary" link. Enter the docket number, excluding the last three digits in the docket number field, to access the document.
