B. What should I consider as I prepare my comments for EPA?

1. Submitting CBI. Do not submit this information to EPA through regulations.gov or email. Clearly mark the part or all of the information that you claim to be CBI. For CBI information in a disk or CD-ROM that you mail to EPA, mark the outside of the disk or CD-ROM as CBI and then identify electronically within the disk or CD-ROM the specific information that is claimed as CBI. In addition to one complete version of the comment that includes information claimed as CBI, a copy of the comment that does not contain the information claimed as CBI must be submitted for inclusion in the public docket. Information so marked will not be disclosed except in accordance with procedures set forth in 40 CFR part 2.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Information About the Document

In 2007, Congress enacted the Energy Independence and Security Act (EISA) with the stated goals of “mov[ing] the United States toward greater energy independence and security [and] to increase the production of clean renewable fuels.” In accordance with these goals, EISA revised the Renewable Fuel Standard (RFS) Program, which was created under the 2005 Energy Policy Act and is administered by EPA, to increase the volume of renewable fuel required to be blended into transportation fuel to 36 billion gallons per year by 2022. Section 204 of EISA directs EPA, in consultation with the U.S. Departments of Agriculture and Energy, to assess and report triennially to Congress on the environmental and resource conservation impacts of the RFS Program.

The first report to Congress (RtC1) was completed in 2011 and provided an assessment of the environmental and resource conservation impacts associated with increased biofuel production and use (EPA/600/R-10/183F). The overarching conclusions of this first report were: (1) the environmental impacts of increased biofuel production and use were likely negative but limited in impact; (2) there was a potential for both positive and negative impacts in the future; and (3) EISA goals for biofuels production could be achieved with minimal environmental impacts if best practices were used and if technologies advanced to facilitate the use of second-generation biofuel feedstocks (corn stover, perennial grasses, woody biomass, algae, and waste).

The second report to Congress (RtC2) was completed in 2018 and reaffirmed the overarching conclusions of the RtC1 (EPA/600/R-18/195). The RtC2 noted that the biofuel production and use conditions that led to the conclusions of the RtC1 had not materially changed, and that the production of biofuels from cellulosic feedstocks anticipated by both the EISA and the RtC1 had not materialized. Noting observed increases in acreage for corn and soybean production in the period prior to and following implementation of the RFS Program, the RtC2 concluded that the environmental and resource conservation impacts associated with land use change were likely due, at least in part, to increased biofuel production and use associated with the RFS Program. However, the RtC2 also concluded that further research was needed to assess the linkages between environmental impacts and either the biofuels market generally or the RFS Program specifically.

This RtC3 builds on the previous two reports and provides an update on the impacts to date of the RFS Program on the environment. This report assesses air, water, and soil quality; ecosystem health and biodiversity; and other effects. This third report also includes new analyses not previously included in the first and second reports.

II. Information About This Peer Review

On May 9, 2022, EPA announced through an FRN (87 FR 27634) that it was seeking public comment on a pool of twenty (20) candidates identified through a previous FRN seeking nomination of experts (87 FR 5479, February 1, 2022). After considering public comment, and the balance and collective expertise of the reviewers, ERG identified two (2) additional candidates to strengthen expertise gaps in ecology, water quality, and economics, and allow a more balanced panel. On August 1, 2022, EPA announced through an FRN (87 FR 46958) that it was seeking public comment on the two (2) additional peer review candidates.

After review and consideration of public comments on the candidates submitted in response to the previous FRNs (87 FR 27634, May 9, 2022, and 87 FR 46958, August 1, 2022), EPA’s contractor, ERG, selected nine (9) peer reviewers from the pool in a manner consistent with EPA’s Peer Review Handbook 4th Edition, 2015 (EPA/100/B-15/001) and independently conducted a conflict of interest (COI) screening of candidates to ensure that the selected experts have no COI in conducting this review. Candidates’ combined expertise span the following disciplines: economics, engineering, agronomics, land use change, remote sensing, air quality, biogeochemistry, water quality, hydrology, conservation biology, limnology, and ecology. The external peer review panel, peer review meeting dates, and registration information will be available on www.epa.gov/risk/biofuels-and-environment.

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK

Updated Intent To Conduct a Detailed Economic Impact Analysis

AGENCY: Export-Import Bank.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: This notice is to inform the public that the Export-Import Bank of the United States has received has received a request to increase the financed amount for a previously notified application (FR Doc. 2022-19164). The application is now for a $99.7 million direct loan to support the export of approximately $63.88 million in U.S. equipment and services to upgrade and expand an oil refinery in Indonesia. There has been no change in the expected output of the facility, and the supported U.S. exports will still enable the facility to increase production capacity of gasoline by 101,000 barrels per day and propylene by 225,000 tons per year. Available information indicates that the refined products will be consumed domestically, with negligible sales to other markets.

DATES: Comments are due 14 days from publication in the Federal Register.

ADDRESSES: Interested parties may submit comments on this transaction electronically at www.regulations.gov, or by email to economic.impact@exim.gov.
