Abstract of Information Available

Human remains representing, at least two individuals have been identified from Flathead County, Montana. No associated funerary objects are present. The donor is Donald Boudeman. Boudeman who was an avid collector with wide-ranging interests, including musical instruments, medieval armor, firearms, and artifacts from Alaska, Egypt, Africa, the Americas, and the Philippines. He frequently advertised for acquisitions and displayed items from his collection at the Kalamazoo Public Museum (now the Kalamazoo Valley Museum), where he was named Curator of Archaeology around 1930. He was active in the Michigan-Indiana Museums Association, serving as Vice-President. Following his death in 1949, portions of his extensive collection entered the holdings of institutions such as the Kalamazoo Valley Museum, Michigan State University, Western Michigan University, and the National Museum of the American Indian.

Per Robert Sundick, forensic anthropologist and professor at Western Michigan University (April 1988), “The artificial deformation of the skull may be due to wrapping the skull as an infant. The skull and mandible do not work together so are from two different individuals.” Originally it was thought that two remains belonged to the same person.
