SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a draft guidance for industry entitled “BCG-Unresponsive Nonmuscle Invasive Bladder Cancer: Developing Drug and Biological Products for Treatment.” The purpose of this guidance is to assist sponsors in the development of drugs and biologics for the treatment of patients with BCG-unresponsive NMIBC. This guidance addresses select statistical and clinical trial design issues specific to BCG-unresponsive NMIBC. These topics are further addressed in the International Council for Harmonisation guidances for industry entitled “E9 Statistical Principles for Clinical Trials” (September 1998) and “E10 Choice of Control Group and Related Issues in Clinical Trials” (May 2001), respectively.

This draft guidance reflects proposed changes to FDA’s guidance entitled “BCG-Unresponsive Nonmuscle Invasive Bladder Cancer: Developing Drugs and Biologics for Treatment,” published in February 2018, and incorporates FDA’s current recommendations based on the Agency’s experience as well as the evolving landscape of drug development in this space, as noted by external experts. This guidance, when finalized, will replace the final guidance titled BCG-Unresponsive Nonmuscle Invasive Bladder Cancer: Developing Drugs and Biologics for Treatment published in February 2018.

Key changes include the following: (1) clarification on use of BCG substrains, (2) considerations for trial design and conduct in the setting of a recent worldwide shortage of BCG, (3) clarification on use of single arm vs. randomized trial designs (with more emphasis on randomized control trials), and (4) clarifications on assessing and reporting responses and assessing endpoints for trials.

This draft guidance is being issued consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The draft guidance, when finalized, will represent the current thinking of FDA on “BCG-Unresponsive Nonmuscle Invasive Bladder Cancer: Developing Drug and Biological Products for Treatment.” It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.
