One comment was received, objecting to the proposed deletion at this time, because the commenter said that the requirement might be procured again in the future. The commenter recommended that the Commission pause its deletion action for at least a year. However, the Commission's research indicates it is unlikely that the previous requirement will be procured by this customer in the foreseeable future. The Commission maintains that contact center and IT help desk support can be suitable for procurement from nonprofit agencies employing individuals who are blind or have significant disabilities. In this case, however, there is no longer a government requirement for contract support, thus there is no potential to create or sustain employment for contract employees with disabilities. Accordingly, this requirement is appropriate for deletion from the Procurement List.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Abstract of Patents and Patent Application(s)

I. Optical-based microneedle (MN) sensors to detect analytes in dermal interstitial fluid in a minimally invasive manner are described. Compared to electrochemical MN strategies, optical sensing is largely unexplored but has numerous potential benefits, including enhanced shelf-life, avoidance of drift, decreased impact of biofouling, and a smaller form factor when not in active use. This strategy also avoids the considerable challenges associated with both implantable optical sensors and sensors that employ skin interstitial fluid wicking/collection for downstream analysis.

Intellectual Property

“Transdermal Optical Silk Microneedle Sensors for Continuous Monitoring for Physiological Analytes in Interstitial Fluid.” The invention is protected under US Provisional Patent Application Serial No. 63/615,081 filed on December 27, 2023, and PCT Patent Application No. PCT/US2024/062043 filed on December 27, 2024.

The Department of the Air Force may grant the prospective license unless a timely objection is received that sufficiently shows the grant of the license would be inconsistent with the Bayh-Dole Act or implementing regulations. A competing application for a patent license agreement, completed in compliance with 37 CFR 404.8 and received by the Air Force within the period for timely objections, will be treated as an objection and may be considered as an alternative to the proposed license.
