

types of information that may prove useful to NMFS include:

- Documentation (photographs, etc.) of IUU activity or fishing vessels engaged in PLMR bycatch or catch of sharks on the high seas;
 - Documentation (photographs, etc.) of fishing vessels engaged in shared PLMR bycatch in any waters beyond the U.S. EEZ;
 - Fishing vessel records;
 - Trade data supporting evidence that a nation's vessels are engaged in shark catch on the high seas;
 - Reports from off-loading facilities, port-side government officials, enforcement agents, military personnel, port inspectors, transshipment vessel workers and fish importers;
 - Sightings of vessels included on RFMO IUU vessel lists;
 - RFMO catch documents and statistical document programs;
 - Nation's domestic regulations for bycatch and shark conservation and management;
 - Action or inaction at the national level, resulting in non-compliance with RFMO conservation and management measures, such as exceeding quotas or catch limits, or failing to report or misreporting data of the nation's fishing activities; and
 - Reports from governments, international organizations, or nongovernmental organizations.
- NMFS will consider all available information, as appropriate, when making a determination whether or not to identify a particular nation in the biennial report to Congress. As stated previously, NMFS is limited in the data it may use as the basis of a nation's identification. This information includes IUU fishing activity and bycatch of PLMRs in 2014, 2015 and 2016, and shark fishing activity in waters beyond any national jurisdiction in 2016. Information should be as specific as possible as this will assist NMFS in its review. NMFS will consider several criteria when determining whether information is appropriate for use in making identifications, including:
- Corroboration of information;
 - Whether multiple sources have been able to provide information in support of an identification;
 - The methodology used to collect the information;
 - Specificity of the information provided;
 - Susceptibility of the information to falsification and alteration; and
 - Credibility of the individuals or organization providing the information.
