

Department received significant adverse comments, the Department would withdraw the rule or issue a new final rule which responds to such comments. Id. at 90 FR 20766. Thus, DOE provided interested persons with fair notice and an opportunity to comment as required by the APA. As a result, there was no need for a good cause exemption from notice-and-comment rulemaking under 5 U.S.C. 553(b).

Finally, contrary to the comment from Dooling (Dooling, No. 3 at p. 5), Dooling cannot argue commenters were denied fair notice and an opportunity to comment solely based on how the notice was labeled. See Little Sisters of the Poor Saints Peter & Paul Home v. Pennsylvania, 591 U.S. 657, 683 (2020) (holding that “[f]ormal labels aside, the [interim final rules] contained all of the elements of a notice of proposed rulemaking as required by the APA”). Irrespective of its title, the May 2025 DFR contained the required elements of a proposed rulemaking under the APA.

B. Response to Other Comments

DOE received two comments, which stated (1) that parties benefit from ADR and the rescission of this regulation would make complainants less aware of this cost-saving service; and (2) that this regulation was required by the Administrative Dispute Resolution Act (“ADRA”), 5 U.S.C. 573. (Anonymous, No. 2 at p. 1; Anonymous, No. 4 at p. 1) In response to the first point, DOE notes that it will continue to advise all parties to disputes under the DOE Contractor Employee Protection Program as to the availability of ADR services in order to promote cost-efficient methods of problem solving pursuant to 10 CFR 708.18 and 10 CFR 708.27. In light of DOE’s direct outreach to parties who might benefit from ADR, there is no evidence that parties rely on this regulation to learn of the availability of ADR, and, therefore, there is no evidence that the rescission of this regulation will reduce the use of ADR in any meaningful way. And in response to the second point, ADRA does not require the DOE to maintain specific regulations encouraging the use of ADR; rather it requires generally that agencies “encourage and facilitate agency use of alternative means of dispute resolution.” (5 U.S.C. 573(c)(1)) DOE will continue to encourage and facilitate the use of ADR when appropriate regardless of any specific regulation, and, thus, will adhere to the requirements of ADRA.

III. Conclusion

For the reasons discussed in the preceding sections of this document, DOE is not withdrawing the May 2025 DFR, which rescinds the regulation encouraging the use of ADR for resolving complaints under the DOE Contractor Employee Protection Program.

DOE also notes, to the extent that 5 U.S.C. 553 applies to the delay of effective date, it is exempt from notice and comment because it constitutes a rule of procedure under 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(A) and for which no notice or hearing is required by statute. Additionally, this action is not a “substantive rule” for which a 30-day delay in effective date is required under 5 U.S.C. 553(d).

Rescinding Regulations for Loans for Minority Business Enterprises Seeking DOE Contracts and Assistance

AGENCY: Office of Civil Rights and EEO, Department of Energy.

ACTION: Direct final rule; delay of effective date.

SUMMARY: Due to the receipt of significant adverse comments, the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) is extending the effective date of the direct final rule “Rescinding Regulations for Loans for Minority Business Enterprises Seeking DOE Contracts and Assistance,” published on May 16, 2025.

DATES: As of July 14, 2025, the effective date of the direct final rule published May 16, 2025, at 90 FR 20769, is extended to September 12, 2025.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Jeffrey Novak, U.S. Department of Energy, Office of the General Counsel, GC–1, 1000 Independence Avenue SW, Washington, DC 20585; (202) 586–5281 or DOEGeneralCounsel@hq.doe.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On May 16, 2025, DOE published a direct final rule (90 FR 20769). DOE stated in that direct final rule that if significant adverse comments were received by June 16, 2025, DOE would withdraw the direct final rule or issue a new final rule which responds to the significant adverse comments.

Because DOE subsequently received significant adverse comments on that direct final rule, DOE is extending the effective date to consider comments submitted in response to the direct final rule.

To the extent that 5 U.S.C. 553 applies to this action, it is exempt from notice and comment because it constitutes a rule of procedure under 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(A) and for which no notice or hearing is required by statute. Additionally, this action is not a “substantive rule” for which a 30-day delay in effective date is required under 5 U.S.C. 553(d).
