

substantially as announced. These information collection requirements are necessary to ensure that broadcast licensees conduct contests with due regard for the public interest.

On September 17, 2015, by Report and Order, FCC 15–118, the Commission amended the Contest Rule to permit broadcasters to meet their obligation to disclose contest material terms on an Internet Web site in lieu of making broadcast announcements. Under the amended Contest Rule, broadcasters are required to (i) announce the relevant Internet Web site address on air the first time the audience is told about the contest and periodically thereafter; (ii) disclose the material contest terms fully and accurately on a publicly accessible Internet Web site, establishing a link or tab to such terms through a link or tab on the announced Web site's home page, and ensure that any material terms disclosed on such a Web site conform in all substantive respects to those mentioned over the air; (iii) maintain contest material terms online for at least thirty days after the contest has ended; and (v) announce on air that the material terms of a contest have changed (where that is the case) within 24 hours of the change in terms on a Web site, and periodically thereafter, and to direct consumers to the Web site to review the changes.

On July 14, 2014, the Commission released the Rural Broadband Experiments Order, 79 FR 45705, August 6, 2014, which established certain parameters and requirements for the rural broadband experiments adopted by the Commission in the Tech Transitions Order. Under this information collection, the Commission will collect information to determine whether winning bidders are technically and financially capable of receiving funding for rural broadband experiment projects. To aid in collecting this information regarding the rural broadband experiments, the Commission has created FCC Form 5620, which provisionally selected winning bidders use to demonstrate that they have the technical and financial qualifications to successfully complete the proposed project within the required timeframes. This form is available electronically through the Internet, and electronic filing will be required. The Commission will also collect information through a November interim progress report and build-out milestone certifications accompanied by evidence that will enable the Commission to monitor the progress of the rural broadband experiments and ensure that the support is used for its intended purposes. Finally, under this information collection, rural broadband experiment recipients must retain records required to demonstrate to auditors that the support was used consistent with the terms and conditions for a period of ten years. The Communications Act of 1934, as amended requires the “preservation and advancement of universal service.” The information collection requirements reported under this new collection are the result of various Commission actions to promote the Act’s universal service goals, while minimizing waste, fraud, and abuse.
