General Description of Collection: The collection implements recordkeeping requirements associated with the Bank Protection Act. The Bank Protection Act of 1968 (12 U.S.C. 1881–1884) requires each Federal supervisory agency to promulgate rules establishing minimum standards for security devices and procedures to discourage financial crime and to assist in the identification of persons who commit such crimes. To avoid the necessity of constantly updating a technology-based regulation, the FDIC takes a flexible approach to implementing this statute. It requires each insured non-member bank to designate a security officer who will administer a written security program. The security program must (1) establish procedures for opening and closing for business and for safekeeping valuables; (2) establish procedures that will assist in identifying persons committing crimes against the bank; (3) provide for initial and periodic training of employees in their responsibilities under the security program; and (4) provide for selecting, testing, operating and maintaining security devices as prescribed in the regulation. In addition, the FDIC requires the security officer to report at least annually to the bank’s board of directors on the effectiveness of the security program. There is no change in the method or substance of the collection. The 9,670-hour decrease in burden is the result of the elimination of acquiring institutions as respondents, revisions to estimates of the time per response, as well as a decline in the number of FDIC-supervised institutions.
